REMNANTS OF DRESS GOODS.

A CLEARANCE TO-DAY.

Rebuilding operations necessitated a clearance of our Dress Goods and, in consequence, we are left with odd lengths of various materials, including Cloths, Serges (cream and navy), Tweeds, in an endless variety, Reviidas, Delaines, etc. They will be placed on tables this morning so that each piece will be seen at a glance, and in some cases they will be marked 50 per cent. below regular prices. We invite your inspection.

FARMER'S, SYDNEY.

THE KITCHEN GARDEN

AND ITS REQUIREMENTS.

For the month of June the work in the Kitchen Garden is FULL OF POSSIBILITIES and hard driving. As will be seen from the suggestions we make, there is ample to occupy the time, and one must also consider the future, for it is at this time that so much can be prepared for the future.

NOW A FULL CROP OF PEAS, BROAD BEANS, CABBAGE, BRUSSELS SPROUTS, AND BROCCOLI.

And a smaller sowing of Lettuce, Radish, Carrot, Leek, White Turnip, Spinach, Broccoli, Tomato, Cape Gooseberry, Capsicum, etc.

Plant out Winter Rhubarb, Asparagus, and Horse Radish Roots, Herbs, Eschalots, Garlic, and Tree Onions, Jerusalem Artichokes, Cabbage, and Cauliflower plants.

All Vegetable Seeds, 3d and 6d per packet. Rhubarb, 4/, and 7/6 per dozen. Asparagus, 2 years old, 7/6 per 100.

BONE DUST AND B.B.

are two capital fertilisers with which to enrich both Kitchen and Flower Garden. A dressing of either or the above, well dug into the ground, will be of great service to all future crops of both Vegetables and Flowers.

See our advertised prices.

TOURIST TRAFFIC.

TOURIST TICKETS ISSUED TO ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

The RESTORATIVE EFFECTS and LIFE-GIVING PROPERTIES of a sea voyage under favourable conditions are becoming more recognised in all parts of the world, while all authorities agree that to travel in warm latitudes, being constantly in the open air, breathing pure ozone, is preferable to visiting colder countries, where artificial heat in cabins and rooms often vitiates the air.

HIGH-CLASS PASTRY COOKING.
TWO NEW PARAGONS IN OPERATION.
ALSO, THE LATEST ENGLISH GAS STOVE.
THE STARTLING SWISS ROLL TEST.
COOKING WITHOUT GAS.
THE GREAT RING TEST.

STARTLING ANNOUNCEMENT.
In order to show those persons who were not born blind the outrageous waste of gas in English stoves, M. Baleigh will on Wednesday place a tenpound roast of beef in an English stove. He will also place a pound of butter in the same chamber. He will roast the meat, and will not melt the butter, which will be two hours in the stove. In fact, one part of the stove is a roasting chamber, and the other part is a butter cooler. In the name of common-sense come and see this wonderful test. And after seeing it you can then make a bee line in a hurry and buy an English gas stove, before they are all gone. If all the rings on an English gas stove were alight they would have no more effect on the interior of the stove than a mustard blister would have on a wooden leg.

MAAW KONSCHUNCHE,
RALEIGH'S PATENT ROOM-WARMER.
Heats a large room in one hour with eight feet of gas, costing less than halfpenny. Can be used in every room in a house. In operation daily.

PUBLIC CAUTION

When asking for PHOSFERINE see that the article you get is the genuine and spelt

PHOSFERINE

Refuse any preparation of a similar sounding name which may be offered from interested motives. The original and only genuine PHOSFERINE is prepared by ASHTON & PARSONS, LTD., LONDON.

The Royal Example

Phosferine is used by the Royal Families of Europe, which, in plain language, means that every user of Phosferine knows and feels that this famous Tonic is recommended by the greatest living Physicians.

Indeed such has been its fame and recommendations, that there is scarcely a Royal Residence in which PHOSFERINE is not used and favourably spoken of.

No other medicine has received such absolute proof of its extraordinary properties in restoring shattered constitutions and in giving back to the prematurely aged new life and energy. It is a proven remedy for Neuralgia, Maternity-Weakness, General Debility, Indigestion, Sleeplessness, Exhaustion, Loss of Appetite, Lassitude, Faintness, Brain-Fag, Headache, Influenza, and all disorders consequent upon a reduced state of the nervous system.

Royal Warrant to His Majesty the KING OF SPAIN

ROYAL WARRANT

By the Royal Command I give you the information that HIS MAJESTY THE KING, our Lord whom may God preserve, has gratefully conferred upon you the honour of Providers to the Royal House and also the use of the Royal Arms on the documents and labels of the Factory of the Tonic known as PHOSFERINE, which is situate in London.

Palace, Madrid, September 3, 1909.

Sres. Ashton & Parsons, Ltd.

"TRUTH," the world famous exposer of false trading, writes:—"PHOSFERINE improves the appetite, energises the system, and acts beneficially upon the general health, renewing exhausted vitality. It is not an expensive remedy, nor has it a disagreeable taste, the latter quality making it especially useful for the children, who, you will find, will derive great benefit from it."

SIR JOHN KIRK (the Famous Chief of the Ragged School Union), writes:—"I cannot withhold my spontaneous testimony to the value of a remedy which, from personal experience, I have found to be so efficacious. In the neuralgic and other nerve disturbances consequent on long continuous brain activity, PHOSFERINE fulfils its curative functions most successfully."

PHOSFERINE

THE GREATEST OF ALL TONICS

Remember. Imitations of Phosferine are similar only in name. Insist upon having the genuine Phosferine—the kind that is supplied by Royal Command

PART II.—STEPHANIE'S STORY.

We stopped before the great drop-curtain that cut off the inner part of the house; beyond that, Mr. Worboise told me, no white man would be permitted to advance. What might lie in the Unholy of Unholies at the end could only be guessed. Instant death would probably be the penalty of trying to find out.

Here, then, we held our talk. My guide presented the chief with several sticks of tobacco, a tomahawk, and a yard or two of red calico, gifts that seemed to please him greatly. Some of them were passed through my hands, for Mr. Worboise said that the natives regarded me with fear and horror, as an unnatural thing that they had never seen nor heard of, and it was as well to dissipate the impression, if we were to win their goodwill.

Mr. Warboise talked and talked on, and the men of Maipua answered, slowly and sullenly for the most part. I could not understand a word, but my instinct told me that things were not going as well as might be wished. The questions grew longer, the answers sullener and shorter.

Outside, beyond the cool shadow of the great "ravi" (as the houses were named) the sun beat down upon the fathomless black slime and the poisonous green creepers and trailers, raising horrible exhalations into the dead, damp, heat-soaked air. A long way off, a thin metallic sound of voices chanting made itself heard, coming slowly nearer and nearer.

Mr. Worboise stopped at last, and rubbed his hand across his dripping forehead.

"No good, Mrs. Hugh," he said. "Let's be gettin' on."

They did not stand aside to let us pass, and we had to push a way to the platform outside, through their evil-smelling, painted bodies. I did not much like this, nor, I saw, did my companion. The truth was, I was sick with terror, and had been so all the morning. This last touch was almost too much, and I started to run across the platform to the dinghy. But Mr. Worboise gripped my arm.

"Don't do that; there's no trouble, if you don't go for to make it," he said.

The chanting sound was coming nearer, round the bend of the river. It was close at hand now. We got into the dinghy quickly, but without haste, and pushed off, both, I think, heaving a sigh of relief when it became evident that no objection to our departure would be made. And at that moment the source of the music became visible.

Down the river came a huge raft, so freighted with waving leaves and branches that it looked like a piece of forest afloat. It had a crowd of wildeyed native men aboard, decked out in feathers and grasses, so that they fluttered all over with every movement. In the centre of the raft was a kind of pyre, upon which lay something wrapped up in leaves—something long and shapeless. The warriors, urging the raft along, sang a wild, fierce, brassy chant as they swung to their paddles, and paused at rhythmic intervals to shake a spear or a bunch of bristling arrows at the formless thing they ferried.

"In God's name, what is it?" I asked, my hand clenched tight on my companion's sleeve.

No answer came for a minute. Then I heard Mr. Worboise heave a sigh of relief.

"It's only a pig—this time," he said. "Don't be afraid to look. It ain't always——"

For the first time since I had known him, he bit a cannibal reference off before it had reached his lips.

The raft passed quite near us as we rowed out to the launch again, but not a soul on board took the slightest notice of us. They seemed rapt in a kind of hideous ecstasy, absorbed in the booming bellow of their chant. For a long time after the raft passed us and disappeared round the next bend of the stream, we could hear the horrid sound, growing gradually faint in the distance.

Mr. Worboise got up steam at once, and in a few minutes we were panting down the river again, with the great devil-horns of the maipuan houses pricking into the brassy sky behind us, and the wide green reaches of the Purari opening out before.

I came to him where he was standing at the wheel.

"You got no good news," I said.

"No," he answered heavily. "Truth is, Mrs. Hugh, the Delter seems hup a bit. They was rather sorry in the ravi, and they wouldn't tork about Hugh, except to say they 'adn't 'eard nothing about him, which is a lie on the face of it. Never you mind, we'll 'ear somethin' to-morrow, if I can find the place I want."

He turned the wheel in his hands, and swept round the bend. A waft of cool air from the wider reaches blew across the deck, and the natives who were squatted near us, ostentatiously cleaning their rifles, raised their heads and snuffed the freshness with delight.

It was good to be out in the free, safe river again; but my mind felt heavy.

CHAPTER XIV.

When I look back upon that time of adventure and peril in the Delta, I almost wonder if, in truth, it ever happened—if the whole tale is more than the recollection of a dream, dreamed in the thunderous midnight hours of the hot season, when the tide of life runs low, and the mind is attuned to strange and terrible fancies.

Even while we were travelling through it, the whole country seemed to me incredible and unreal. Nothing was of the least use but the little handful of known and familiar things contained within the oval of the Ela's bulwarks.

When we had been three days tracking and threading the mazes of this most wonderful place, I felt as if the Stephanie of London days, who used to be seen in and out of cabs, and met at suburban railway stations, never had existed at all, and as if this new Stephanie, who perilled her life so readily, went ashore with a loaded revolver stuck in the belt of her dress, and looked without emotion at garlands of human skulls and necklaces of human teeth, was the real woman after all.

Something of what Carlyle would call "husks and wrappages" had been stripped away in those few days; what was left was the real me, and I knew that, being thus found, it would never be lost again.

We had trouble finding Doravi. The town to which Mr. Worboise proposed to go after leaving Maipua, as it was in the centre of the sago country, and for this reason he thought we were likely to find Hugh there, or, at least, to hear of him, since sago-getting was the only source of income in the Purari. We knew now for certain that he was in the Delta; the determined silence of the natives had told us so much.

I was puzzled to know why Mr. Worboise had not tried to obtain information from the men on the raft, but he told me that was impossible.

"Not when you know as much of these people as I do, you wouldn't hinterrupt them in the middle of a religious ceremony," he said—"which that was one we seen, or part of one—without you was pretty tired of livin'. And, without you was pretty tired of livin', you

THE LUNGS AND CONSUMPTION.

THE DAILY TELEGRAPH, 13/6/11, in an able sub-leader, points out the work of the NATIONAL ASSOCIATION for the PREVENTION AND CURE OF CONSUMPTION and its effect upon the community, and in another part of the issue, in a special article, refers to a big crusade organising TO FIGHT THIS "WHITE PLAGUE." The fight in this white scourge become, that every effort is to be made by press and public to check its ravages.

There is a simple way to check this disease by personal effort in using a lung-strengthening and disease-preventing medicine, which, while it may not pay pretends to, cure this dire disease, yet it will maintain lung health and freedom from winter lung risks, by keeping the "breathing apparatus" normal and non-subject to influenza and colds. This medicine is which soothes the throat and lungs, relieves inflammation, prevents colds, coughs, and wheezing, and soothes the bronchial tubes when affected. Its timely use by preventing cold, WHICH often LEADS TO CONSUMPTION, will save much pain and perhaps life. It possesses the system-building and body-strengthening properties of LIME AND SODA, recommended so highly by the profession. For invalids after wasting illness, children in cases of Whooping Cough, Asthma, Bronchitis, or Influenza, it is unequalled. Mothers should keep it always, and use it in all cases of Cough, Cold, Bronchitis, Influenza, or Whooping Cough and Croup.

ON THE LAND.

FARM AND STATION.

ITEMS.

The annual conference of the Butter Factories' Managers and Secretaries' Association opens to-day.

An interesting series of papers will be read, but owing to Mr. Trefle being absent, the usual address by the Minister for Agriculture will not be given.

Our Wingham correspondent writes:—Mr. H. J. Lyne (district forester) has been asked whether he can suggest an area suitable for utilising prison labour for forestry work, such area to comprise some 6000 or 10,000 acres.

On the South Coast it is generally considered that district agricultural societies should give a place to the Illawarra breed.

The output of butter from the Nowra Co-operative Dairy Company for the month of May was 49 tons, 9 tons in excess of the corresponding month last year. The pay was 8 4-5d per lb. net.

The factory at Cobbaki manufactured 7357lb of butter during May, the gross amount received being £302 0s 3d. Working expenses amounted to £44 7s, suppliers being paid net £258 17s 8d.

During the month of May there were shipped from Bawley Point, near Milton, 1600 sleepers, 40,000 super feet hewn girders, and 160,000 super feet of sawn hardwood, a large quantity of the timber being for export.

Wire netting is being extensively used at Wolumla. The maize crops on that part of the South Coast exceed those of previous years, while potato crops are below.

At a sale of cattle at Pambula last week, milkers brought £9 12s 6d springers £9 2s 6d, two-year-old Jersey heifers £11, 18-months-old heifers £9 12s 6d, 15-months-old £6 12s 6d, poddy heifers £3 5s, draught horses to £26 5s.

The half yearly report of the Central Tilba cheese factory shows that 158,425 gallons of milk were received, yielding 15,626lb of cheese. Suppliers were paid at the rate of 4¾d per gallon.

On many small farms close to Sydney the paddock system of raising swine might be well adopted. Turnips and other root crops should be grown.

On such properties it is found that it is far better to feed pumpkins and melons to the pigs, and top off the young porkers by this means.

In Central Cumberland many farmers now fence off a paddock and wire-net it for the "cucumbers." They thrive under these conditions, and the healthy environment is in marked contrast to the old style of keeping them in sties and pens.

The Chinese cauliflower-growers near Bathurst find that the vegetables are not maturing as well as usual this winter, and the season is very late. Generally speaking the crop at Bathurst is not up to expectations.

For the most part Cumberland fruitgrowers will have a fine crop of oranges to gather. Prices have not been up to former years.

In the past much a small price has been received for preserving melons that many Hawkesbury farmers have refrained from growing them.

Dan. Cooper, who holds the highest recorded tally for a day, is shearing at Hallindalloch, in the western district, where he has been putting through over 200 sheep per day.

While there is plenty of grass around Windsor, and frosts and the westerlies have dried it off considerably during the last few weeks, Farmers who have silos now score. This season the heavy growth gave a fine opportunity for storing ensilage.

Owners of good cattle complain of there being no facilities for loading stock at Seven Hills. The Railway Commissioners contend, however, that there is a proper siding at Blacktown; but this means a journey of three or four miles by road—a risk that breeders are not inclined to take along the Western-road in these days of motor cars.

Pears are a side line which fruitgrowers on the Kurrajong Heights finds profitable. The altitude at which they can be grown, and the comparatively cool climate, combined with the rich chocolate soil, make the conditions ideal. The crops are planted between the trees in the orchard, the only fertilising element being a little bone dust.

While the area on the Kurrajong under peas is fair, there is plenty of room for more cultivation to supply Sydney, which is only 10 miles away. The cost of labour for picking is a difficulty. There has been this winter a mild attempt at a strike amongst the pickers, who demand a shilling a bushel, in lieu of pinepence, the price usually paid.

LONDON WOOL TRADE.

GOOD WOOLS FIRM.

FAULTY SORTS A LITTLE IRREGULAR.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRIESPONDENT.)

LONDON, May 19.

Coleman-street this week has, if anything, showed signs that values are at the top, and both temper and disposition will have to change before any section of the trade is prepared to pay more for either wool, tops, or yarns. Still the sales have passed off creditably, and I do not know that I can report any marked weakness in any one quarter. There still pervades an excellent buying spirit, and on all sides a freedom about operating. Wool is still selling freely, and values are all firm at the highest point for all good merinos and crossbreds. The slight irregularity seen in faulty wools has been exaggerated and made the most of by some whose sole desire is to see values down in order to enable them to secure what they want at a cheaper rate. The situation is still inherently sound, and all things considered the week's work has been good.

Good merinos occupy as sound a position as ever, all descriptions of good combing wools easily making the full opening advance. Things are certainly no cheaper, and I do not think they are going to be. The catalogues have contained each day large quantities of second-hand wools, and these seldom sell as well as straight, regular clips. No one seems to be in very urgent need of fresh stock, otherwise I dare say prices would have shown a further upward tendency. All the same, 15d to 16d has been paid for good wools, and such prices are in no sense to be despised. There certainly can be nothing wrong with a market that displays such vitality, even southcoast and Australian wools making frequently 14d to 15d, Tasmanian merinos up to 17d, while scores of lots of speculators' wools have also made from 14d to 15d. Last Wednesday scoured Queensland merino combing made 2s 1½d, while the clothing out of the same flock realised 2s 3½d. I therefore say that prices are in no sense cheap, and wool is selling splendidly.

There is not that demand for faulty merinos that there is for straight combing wools, the former being as a rule about 1d cheaper than the extreme of last sales' rates. These remarks apply to faulty pieces, bellies, and locks, all of which are a bad colour, seedy, and burry, and which will need carbonising. What man is there who can accurately estimate the clean yield of these wools? I could name three or four very important Yorkshire and Lancashire firms who are not giving anything like the support to these wools that they usually do, simply because they have their warehouses full of similar wools bought in Australia. Unfortunately for the buyers, but fortunately for the colonial sellers, the wools in hand have cost sensibly more than what similar wools could be bought for in London to-day. Then again, the strike at Verviers, in Belgium, is an important factor, for three or four firms from that district buy largely these faulty merinos for carbonising purposes, and their competition being limited has had its effect upon this class of staple. Competition on the whole is certainly as good as anyone can reasonably expect.

PRICES COMPARED WITH A YEAR AGO.

Taking prices compared with a year ago, that wool is no cheaper goes without saying, and topmakers have had so far this year a lean time, and will have unless they put their foot down more firmly than they have hitherto done. The price of merino yarns to-day is leaving behind a handsome profit, but I certainly cannot see a good 64's top costing less than 2s 4d, and yet it is with the utmost difficulty that 2s 3½d can be made. A more sober spirit has come over the trade since Easter, and with a big buy on the part of spinners we can easily see distinctly quieter markets in Bradford. All the same, there is as much pressure as ever in consuming centres, at least at the combing and spinning end of the trade, and it is there upon which the hopes of practically all are built regarding the future. There is just wanting to-day a little American competition to cement as it were the whole fabric, and to put "steel" and nerve into Bradford.

DECIDED QUIETNESS IN BRADFORD.

A distinct lull has come over Worsted-opolis so far as new business is concerned, yesterday's market being flat in the extreme. An impression has certainly got abroad in this centre that things are not altogether satisfactory in Coleman-street, and the weakness in faulty wools has been interpreted as an indication that other descriptions are also affected. That is always the case in Bradford. It never is long before spinners and manufacturers put two and two together, or, in other words, they read between the lines at the least sign of weakness, consequently top selling is off for the present, and this week's markets have been the quietest for the past three months. So far London has not done a particle of good to any Yorkshire centre, and three weeks like we have seen will certainly bring about cheaper tops. However, topmakers assert to-day that they are determined to resist all efforts of lowering values, and Coleman-street warrants that attitude being taken up.

Bradford is not a large buyer of faulty wool, simply because it does not use these in any large quantity, as French and Belgian spinners do, preferring something longer in staple, and more adapted to combing purposes. Prices are steady, but at a time like the present, one never knows what a little topmaker will accept. The quotation generally is 2.2½ for 64's, and I hear on several hands that 64 will buy a decent 40's prepared top, although 64⅛ and 64¼ are more general quotations. The salvation of the situation is undoubtedly the continued briskness at the combing and spinning end of the trade. There is no slackening whatever in these quarters; in fact, commission woolcombers are to-day in a magnificent position, and they cannot oblige their customers. All firms alike are working day and night, yet the majority find it extremely difficult to get out tops fast enough. Spinners, too, are as busy as ever, and likely to be.

CONDITIONS ON THE CONTINENT.

The current series of sales have furnished the writer with the opportunity of discussing conditions with several French and German buyers, and all alike seem to be under the impression that values for the moment have touched the top. It is quite true that German buyers are operating on a more restricted scale than French buyers in merinos, and neither section is taking anything like the quantity of wool they did last series. Most support is being given to merinos, while the Continent is distinctly quiet in their attitude towards crossbreds. All alike state that they have enough wool, and that business with them is nothing like as good as it is in Yorkshire. The worsted industry in Germany is a long way the most healthy, the woollen and hosiery trades being distinctly quiet. I must say that I am a little disappointed with the way both French and German buyers talk, it being their contention that when they re-enter the market ends meet, and that many mills are for from being busy; in fact, several are on short time. However, the conditioning house returns at all the leading French centres are a fair indication of what trade is like, and really speaking I do not think there is much reason for complaint.

"BLACK SPOT" ON APPLES.

BOWRAL.—During the late fruit season many orchardists in the district suffered heavy losses of apples owing to a black spot, which affected the fruit, and in one instance (that of Mr. E. Beer, of Mt. Gibraltar orchard) the loss from this cause was estimated at £125. Mr. Beer sent a sample of the apples to the Government Bureau of Microbiology, and has received reply stating that the disease is not "bitter pit," but "black spot," and is due to a fungus (Fusicladium dendriticum). The disease is sometimes called "apple scab," and is closely allied or perhaps identical with "pear scab." The fungus attacks not only the fruit, but also the leaves and young wood. It may pass the winter in the young wood, and be ready to attack the new leaves and fruit as soon as they appear. The treatment recommended is to spray with Bordeaux mixture. The first spray should be given as the leaves are bursting into leaf, and a second spraying when the leaves are about half-grown. Should rain occur the spraying must be done over again, so as to keep a layer of the spray on the plant.

NOXIOUS WEEDS.

ACTION IN RIVERINA.

COROWA.—The spread of noxious weeds in this part of the State has been allowed to go on practically unchecked for some years past. As a result, so serious was the situation becoming in the Hume Shire that strong effort is to be put forth with the object of calling a halt to the spread of weeds. At a recent meeting of the councillors it was freely admitted that there had been a lack of determination on their part to enforce the powers they possess in the matter. They recognised that they had the power to force landowners to eradicate noxious weeds, but apparently the latter are either ignorant of the danger or prefer to run the risk of damaging their holdings to putting forth an effort to clear the lands. In addition to taking a firm stand in dealing with offenders the council decided to forward a list of weeds declared noxious to all shires and municipalities in the State, asking in return for a list of noxious weeds in such shires and municipalities, with a request as to what action had been taken in regard to such weeds; to make an effort to get all shires and municipalities into uniformity of action in regard to the eradication of weeds; to endeavour to arrange that a conference of delegates of shires and municipalities between the Murray and Murrumbidgee, also the neighbouring Victorian towns, be held in September for the purpose of discussing and taking of uniform action in regard to noxious weeds; to request the executive council of the Shires Association to approach the Government, asking it to offer a substantial reward to anyone discovering a cheap and effective means of eradicating noxious weeds.

ANALYSIS OF MAIZE.

DAPTO.—Samples of maize exhibited by farmers at Inspector Makin's lecture on Maize on Friday night have been analysed by Mr. Makin to ascertain the percentage of core to grain, with the following result:—J. A. Brown, Boon County, special variety, 20 per cent. core; John Brown, Golden King, 35 per cent.; E. T. Evans, Red Hogan, (hybrid), 18 per cent.; E. T. Evans, Golden King, 33 per cent.; E. T. Evans, Yellow Dent, 26 per cent.; E. T. Evans, Boon County, special, 25 per cent.; W. Harris, Early Leaming, 14 per cent.; J. Lindsay, Yellow Hogan, 29 per cent.; W. J. Smith, Early Leaming (hybrid), 15 per cent. The maize has been forwarded to the Agricultural Department in Sydney for analysis to find out what proportion of protean, starch, and fat the samples contain.

CLOSER SETTLEMENT.

CASINO.—Closer settlement is making great headway in the Upper Richmond districts. Since the Closer Settlement Promotion Act came into force in September last settlement has been more marked than heretofore. In the beginning of this year Messrs. Marrigold and Murray, of Victoria, the owners of Tomki Estate, situated some four miles from Casino, decided to sell some of their farms on completion of the existing leases. Some 24 farms were resurveyed and put in Mr. S. M. Geikie's (of Casino) hands for sale. He took advantage of the estates' liberal terms, and the Closer Settlement Promotion Act, and, as a result, all the farms were sold, also the farms comprising Mr. A. R. Duncan's well-known "Horse Ridge" Estate. Some of the purchases were for cash. The whole of the initial arrangements between the vendors and the Government are completed, and the purchase money, totalling £46,000, will be paid, and the farmers take possession in a few days. The total sale price of 24 farms was £39,562 7s 6d, or an average of over £10 per acre. In the Horse Ridges Estate the price obtained was £5129, or an average of £7 13s 4d per acre.

CHILD LABOUR.

MACLEAN.—At a meeting of the Tyndale branch of the Clarence Farmers' Union the statements published by Mr. Fraser, inspector of schools on the Manning River, regarding child labour on dairy farms, were commented upon, and it was decided that the matter should be brought before a general meeting of the union.

REGISTRATION OF ORCHARDS.

YOUNG.—Some time ago the local Fruitgrowers' Union decided that compulsory registration of all orchards was necessary. Also that each grower should have a distinctive brand or mark for cases. It was urged that this system would not only save the inspector trouble in locating orchards, but would also enable him to trace the source of any diseased fruit, exposed for sale in the town or consigned by means of the brand. The resolution was conveyed to the Minister for Agriculture, who replied that it was the first he had heard of the matter, and that it might possibly be brought up at the next conference. Members of the union now point out that under present conditions they are, as far as the inspectors are concerned, made targets of by being members of the union, because he can place them at once, whereas he has to locate the orchards of non-members the best way he can, and may possibly miss them.

RABBIT DESTRUCTION.

ALBURY.—In the Albury Police Court a farmer named Osborne was summoned by the Pastures Protection Board for neglecting to destroy rabbits. Counsel for the defendant suggested a postponement of the case on the ground that the Supreme Court would probably be asked to determine an appeal from the decision of a police magistrate who had dismissed a similar charge at Cowra. There a technical objection had been raised to the effect that the Minister for Lands, not the Minister for Agriculture, was the proper person to authorise the adoption of the methods of destruction to be employed. The case was adjourned for a month.

DAIRYING.

COFF'S HARBOUR.—An enthusiastic meeting of dairy farmers was held in the School of Arts on Saturday, Mr. John Cochrane, of Karangi, presided. Mr. Shepherd, president of the Dairy Farmers' Union, gave an interesting address, explaining at length the objects of the union. At the conclusion of his address a branch of the Dairy Farmers' Union was formed. The following were elected as office-bearers:—President, Mr. John Cochrane; vice-presidents, Messrs. A. E. Shepherd and H. Hurling; hon. secretary, Mr. W. R. smith; and hon. treasurer, Mr. H. B. Farrell.

DISTRICT ITEMS.

DORRIGO.—The balance-sheet of the Dorrigo Agricultural Society for the past year shows the receipts to be £463 17s 1d. The expenditure, including £200 prize money, left a slight debit balance, but considering that a debit balance of over £100 remained from the first show, the second year of the society was deemed highly satisfactory. The annual general meeting, at which the balance-sheet was adopted, was adjourned to the 27th instant, when the election of committee will take place.

GOSFORD.—Mr. Luke Gallard, fruit inspector, who, for the past three years, has been engaged in entomological work in the Gosford district, has received notice of his removal to another district. During his stay Mr. Gallard has made several important discoveries which are of much value to fruit and vegetable growers. The insectarium at Narara will probably be removed, having served its present purpose.

MOLONG.—There will be between 1000 and 1500 acres under crop around Manildra this year in excess of previous years. On sown areas there is a good growth, the seed having stooled splendidly. Scarcity of labour has prevented the earlier completion of sowing, the rabbits proving more lucrative. In some cases trappers are making 25s per night, £1 being usual.

YOUNG.—The farmers have nothing very much to complain of as a whole, as the rain came in time for most of them to get ploughing done in good time. On the other hand, seeding operations were not interfered by in much rain, as in some districts. The pastoralists complain of the inexplicably slow growth of grass and herbage, and some of them are inclined to believe that the grasshoppers poisoned the pastures in some way. Whatever the cause, the grass is not making any great headway, although the prospects, in view of the warmth still in the soil and the rainfall, Orchardists do not approve of prevailing conditions. Though there have been a few fairly heavy frosts, these have been followed so promptly by mild or even warm weather that the ground has not cooled, and many trees, especially apples, are still carrying almost all their leaves. Peaches also are showing quite a pink tinge in the fruit buds, which may possibly result in a premature blooming.

YERONG CREEK.—Farmers are experiencing considerable difficulty owing to so much wet weather, in getting on with seeding operations. A few weeks' fine weather would be much appreciated. The lambing is about finished in the district, and satisfactory results are looked forward to. Stock are in splendid condition.

SUCCESSFUL ARBITRATION.

It is much easier for Judge Heydon, able as he has proved in his present sphere, to advise us to make industrial arbitration a success than it is for anyone to tell us how to do so. Everyone will agree with the Judge's remarks on this point during the delivery of judgment in the butchering award appeal yesterday. The admitted factors in successful arbitration are mutual confidence and mutual concession. These factors affect both sides, and in their absence any arbitration proceeding is bound to be a failure. Unfortunately labour is seldom or never able to realise the mutual nature of the contract. There is nearly always obvious the rooted idea that arbitration exists as a weapon with which to strike at the employer, and so long as that is so the name attached to legislation of this kind will remain a rather bitter kind of irony. Yet industrial legislation, which recognises the worker in his corporate capacity, and enables him to make a collective bargain with the employer, is something we can no longer do without. The State as we conceive it cannot permit industry to be a simple case of the struggle for existence and the survival of the fittest—who may quite likely be socially the least fit. The State has to take up the duty of securing a maximum of efficiency and a minimum of friction in industry; and that means that labour, with its rights and wrongs, cannot be left a chaos. Some order, some regimentation, is essential, and labour is quite shrewd enough to see how much it has to gain by the process. What it is not shrewd enough to see is that the goose that lays the golden eggs is, after all, mortal, and capable of being killed. There is only one thing that can destroy industrial arbitration as a means to industrial peace, and that is the narrow selfishness and fractious recalcitrance of labour itself.

Judge Heydon put this issue very plainly when he defined the rights of the respective parties to an industrial dispute. Labour has every right to secure the best terms and conditions it can for itself; but it has no right at all to take the management of his business out of the employer's hands, and this is, in effect, what it frequently tries to do. It has been proved up to the hilt that no business can be a success without individual initiative and enterprise. Even co-operative concerns have found this out, and attain success in proportion as they leave their manager a free hand. Freedom is essential to business enterprise, but it is plain that if some unions had their way there would be very little left. In the ultimate such a policy is suicidal for the cause of labour itself. It is simply restricting the field of employment, and intensifying those conditions of competition which it is the object of industrial arbitration to circumvent. The crux of the whole matter lies in the ability or in the inability of the worker to see things from the employer's point of view. The converse is not true, for the employer is very effectively obliged all the time to see things from the employee's point of view. If there is any hardship to be inflicted on anyone by an arbitration award our whole experience goes to show that it will not fall upon the employee. The person who now needs protection is the employer. In a sense that is an excellent discipline for him, but labour should be very cautious not to push it too far. Again and again it has the opportunity to meet the employer on little points that mean a great deal to him, and mean very little to the worker. As often as an opportunity of that kind is neglected injury is done to the cause of industrial arbitration. It does not matter what form legislation takes, or how successive parties may tinker with the statutes. If labour is simply out to get what it can, irrespective of the employer's side of the case, then we have warfare, call it by arbitration or any other name we please; and in the long run of industrial war labour almost invariably finds itself on the losing side. If it wants a fair thing for itself let it be ready to give a fair thing to the employer, and nine-tenths of the problems of industrial peace will be solved out of hand.

INCREASING THE PACE.

Last week the Acting State Treasurer drew attention to the fact that one-third of our public indebtedness was to our own people. As a matter of fact a return just published, under the authority of the Federal Statistician, shows that this was actually an understatement of the case. Mr. Knibbs places the respective amounts raised locally and in London at 25 and 67 millions sterling, while taking the Commonwealth as a whole, of the joint State debts, aggregating 257½ millions, 192 millions have been raised on the other side of the world and 65 millions in our own money markets from our own people. There is no gainsaying the fact that that country which can afford the luxury of an internal rather than an external debt is in the soundest position. The question is, however, whether we have really reached that stage in our development in which such a policy can be carried out on sound lines. Were there sufficient money for all purposes this would be so, and it is well recognised that Australia has never before had such a volume of accumulated capital seeking investment as at present. But, is there really enough to carry on the development of the country in the way that private enterprise does it, and still have to spare for the great undertakings of the State? There are some who believe that the pace of our progress might be accelerated, and that that would automatically happen were a little more encouragement given to capital and fewer obstacles placed in the way of its exploitation on legitimate lines of our natural resources. Those with the money, however, fear to launch out in the way that they should just because they fear restraints that might hamper them in their operations, and possibly restrict their profits, if not imperil their capital.

It is true that Australia has prospered much of late, and that nearly all existing institutions and corporations have done, and are doing, well. It is true also that many new concerns are each year being incorporated. Many of these are highly commendable undertakings. Others are over-capitalised; while still others are of the purely wild-cat order. This does not look like stagnation, and it might be pointed to in rebuttal of any presumption that recent legislation has been actually harmful to those with money invested in our midst. It is not so much the harm that has been done as the worry that those interested in enterprises in which labour is an important factor have had to put up with that has told its tale. These have done well, perhaps, but they feel that they have done well in spite of adverse legislation, and that this has only been possible because of the general prosperity, the offspring of good seasons. What they fear is that when dry weather comes once more there will be trouble ahead, and so their hands are stayed in many directions in which they would otherwise be active. It is just these fears that fill the coffers of the State Treasurer. The credit of the people in their collective capacity is still good, despite the vagaries of those for the moment in office, and there are many who prefer the modest rate of interest that the Government pays to its inscribed stock holders rather than the greater return that industrial activity might yield with its greater worries. Were it not for this feeling, which is fairly general among the class concerned, the State Treasurer would get less, and there would be more activity in other directions in which the State plays no part. It will not be a bad sign when the State gets a little less of the accumulated funds of the people and a little more is placed under the control of our captains of industry.

HOMES FOR ORPHANS.

The Presbyterian Church is to be congratulated on the exhibition of munificence which enables it to embark upon a scheme possessing all the essential elements of usefulness and success. The generosity of Colonel Burns and those who have been associated with him in the inauguration of this philanthropic enterprise puts the Presbyterians in the position of doing something well worthy of emulation by every section of the community. The provision made by other denominations for the care of neglected or bereaved children is not forgotten, and the work of the Roman Catholic Church in this direction is specially acknowledged. It is, however, the specific plan of the "Burnside Orphan Homes" that commends this good work to the notice of the public, because the methods which the board of management has adopted secure something like true home life for the little ones. The days of big institutions for the housing of destitute and neglected children are, we hope, gone for ever. Under the best possible management the segregation of large numbers of children under one roof, entailing the adoption of special marks of identification by way of uniform and a semi-military type of discipline, has been proved to be a mistake. The barracks system is, at any rate, as far as little children are concerned, condemned at sight as being the very antithesis of that home life which is essential to the proper upbringing of a child. The very words "child" and "home" go together as the natural order of things, and where, as too often sadly happens, the home-maker, the mother, has gone, it is a kindly and gracious thing to seek to fill her place. There are institutions in and around Sydney where the "mother" idea is carried out as far as circumstances will allow; but the tendency is very naturally towards the embarrassments of that legendary lady who "lived in a shoe." Such "homes" have an inevitable tendency towards institutional defects, the numbers of inmates weakening the maternal bond that should be their outstanding feature. In the Burnside system the limitation of the number of children in the cottages to be built upon the estate will preserve to a large extent the "home" character of each little circle, and enable the "mother" to do justice to her kindly task.

This is a kind of compromise between the institutional and boarding out systems, which under careful management will retain the excellences and eliminate the defects of both. It is the ideal arrangement harmonising the needs of individual children, and at the same time securing the maximum of opportunity for control and organisation by the promoters of the enterprise. Lady Dudley, in expressing her sympathy with the project, laid emphasis upon the immense importance of creating and preserving the home sentiment in this young country, and so far as it is possible to do this in a family between whose members there is no blood tie the cottage homes have a far better chance of accomplishing it than the best managed institution. We are far from denying that excellent work has been done within their limitations by such institutions as the Randwick Asylum and the Sobraon; but the fact that the Government is determined upon another plan with destitute children proves that the "home" idea has been accepted as the most modern and most satisfactory solution of a great social problem. It certainly needs no argument to demonstrate the inefficiency of a semi-military system if we desire to cultivate domestic virtues in our children. As one has truly said, "The discipline that would make a good soldier ruins a child." The barracks system is necessarily artificial, whilst the "home" system is natural. Whilst children are mere babies there can be no question at all of what is desirable, and if a judicious and carefully-planned arrangement for boarding out is followed in the case of the older children, the Burnside experiment of the Presbyterian Church will undoubtedly help to solve one of our most pressing social difficulties. It seems, on paper at any rate, to command success; let us hope it will prove so in practical out-working.

GOVERNMENT HOUSE.

The deputation which waited upon the Lord Mayor yesterday in reference to the Government House proposals of the State Government will probably see to it that the desire for a public meeting is put in proper train. We have no doubt at all that this is one of those subjects which need merely an initiative for their full expression of the general feeling, and we trust that the members of yesterday's deputation will supply that need. And, not only is a meeting of citizens desirable in the interests of an established State institution threatened by unreasonable meddling, but an emphatic insistence upon the case for the other side is imperative. The demolition of Government House is far too important a matter to be allowed to go by default. The proposed destruction of a privilege long held by Sydney as representing this State deserves the most strenuous opposition of those who value it. We believe there are many who value Government House as they have known it for years past. We believe they will be urgent in protest against the suggested spoliation of it. Not only, therefore, should the public meeting of citizens be called in the accustomed way, but it should be made the occasion for an emphatic statement of public opinion.

There should be little difficulty in securing a general protest against this extraordinary proposal, for the one reason, if for no other, that the more closely it is examined the more preposterous it appears. It has one justification, and one alone. It assists the Government to a cheap advertisement among its more rabidly partisan following. That following, indeed, would esteem the abolition of the Governor-General himself as a clever piece of legislation, the abolition of his residence in New South Wales appeals to them as a heroic preliminary. But Mr. Holman and his friends are in danger of making the mistake of their party's career if they contemplate any such pandering to the extremists. The Government has, it is true, a majority behind it at present, though it must be adjudged a majority more or less problematic in its capacity of support. At any rate, it is not the sort of majority which allows a Government inexhaustible license of political experiment. In order to placate the extremists in this matter of Government House, and to acquire a cheap fame in the councils of ultra-democracy, Mr. Holman bids fair to antagonise a body of moderate opinion which might be of considerable value in support later on. For his suggested mishandling of Government House has no shred of legitimate excuse. His own excuse of the need of a library, and museum, and a public park, is little short of ludicrous in face of the facts that Government House cannot be made into a library and a museum without very costly house-breaking, and that in any case the Australian Museum, the Domain, the Art Gallery, and the proposed additions to the Mitchell Library, are of ample capacity for such object. And it is something more than ludicrous in view of what Government House has stood, and still stands, for—on the one hand a centre of social activity, which benefits a far wider circle than that directly favoured by it; and, on the other hand, a symbol, which—in this week especially, when the eyes of the world are turned to a function crammed full of symbolism—has its uses even for a democracy. The proposed meeting will have ample support to urge. It deserves widespread support.

The Week in London.—Our special correspondent in London, writing on May 19 (page 4), deals briefly with the spectacle at the opening of the Queen Victoria Memorial, opposite Buckingham Palace, describes Mr. Fisher's appearance in London, where he will not make the same figure as Mr. Deakin did, and then touches on the success of the German Imperial family's visit to London.

Coronation Number of the "Sydney Mail."—The "Sydney Mail's" Coronation number is a most artistic production. The cover, printed in three colours, is in itself a work of art, which instantly attracts attention. It bears an admirable portrait of King George, enclosed within an appropriate border; and the whole effect is that of regal richness. The "double-page" is well worth framing. The King and Queen are here shown in their royal robes, and the scheme of decoration is appropriately rich and dignified. Altogether there are 22 pages of illustrations, and the issue will doubtless be carefully treasured as a souvenir of the historic ceremony of Thursday next. There are numerous portraits of their Majesties, taken at different stages of their careers, and two interesting large groups represent respectively the King and Queen with the bridesmaids on their wedding day, and the six children, to whom the Royal couple are so warmly attached. There is also a fine full-page portrait of the Prince of Wales. The coronets and costumes to be worn at the Coronation, as well as the various articles comprising the royal regalia, are illustrated. There are excellent pictures of Westminster Abbey, the Coronation chair, the State coach, Windsor Castle, and other subjects relating to the great event. Two very attractive pages are devoted to the train-bearers of the King and Queen. Prominent Coronation guests of his Majesty are represented by the Emperor of Germany, King Haakon of Norway, Prince Christian of Denmark, and the Grand Duke Michael of Russia. A beautiful portrait of Princess Mary is accompanied by portraits of the Crown Princesses of Germany, Greece, Sweden, and Denmark. Naval pictures suggest the imposing character of the coming review, and several illustrations in connection with the Coronation of King Edward serve to give some idea of the way in which London will this week be rejoicing. There are many other pictures, while special articles contain much interesting information.

Parliamentary Party at Kosciusko.—Fourteen members of the State Legislature are spending a few days at Mt. Kosciusko. The party includes Messrs. Henley, Bruntnell, Robson, Hunt, Thomas, Waddell, Hoyle, Lynch, Crawford, Keegan, Waddell, Downes and C. T. C. Miller. Their visit is being made under ideal conditions, for the snow has come early this year, and at present the country in the vicinity of the Hotel Kosciusko is covered to a depth of two or three feet. The party will return on Wednesday.

Division of Labour.—A characteristic remark made by Sir George Reid, High Commissioner for Australia, has become famous in London. It was on the occasion of a banquet tendered to Mr. Fisher, Prime Minister of Australia, in London on May 17. Sir George was responding to the toast of his own health, which had been proposed by Mr. Lewis Harcourt, Secretary of State for the Colonies. "And here," Sir George said, "are the Agents-General of Australia, who have honoured me by their presence on this occasion. Our duties overlap so much that if they were not the most reasonable men in the world we would have been at loggerheads long ago. But a more harmonious body of men, all different from one another, or more devoted to the general welfare, I do not know. They all the dining out and they do all the work." The statement was greeted with a roar of laughter from those present.

Eight-hours Demonstration.—The eight-hours demonstration committee has decided to increase the prizes in the art union by £50, making a total of 350 prizes, and increasing their money value by £750. The increasing popularity of the art union has made this necessary. At the last meeting it was also decided to add between £50 and £100 to the value of the sports prizes. The programme, which includes races for the members of the Athletic League and for members of the Australian Athletic Association, cycling events for the professional and amateur bodies, trade union events for members of trade unions, and events for school children were considered and adopted. The committee pays particular attention to the events for school children, to which the entrance is free.

No Magistrate.—There was a fairly long list of cases set down, both on the charge and summons sides of the Court, for hearing at Paddington yesterday. Word was received, however, of the inability of the magistrate to appear, on account of indisposition, and, although the chamber magistrate disposed of such cases as were non-contentious, the business of the Court was hung up for a considerable time. Litigants, witnesses, and members of the legal profession were, pending the arrival of a relieving magistrate, subjected to a delay of a couple of hours. Eventually a magistrate, after completing his duties at another Court, arrived, and a late finish was the result.

The Sobraon Boys.—Arrangements have been made for the closing of the Sobraon as a State reformatory by the end of July. About 180 boys on the vessel will have to be provided for, and out of this number 70 will be released on probation shortly. Of the remainder 70 will go to the Brush Farm and 20 to the Mittagong Farm, whilst the remainder will be apprenticed out.

French Cruiser Kersaint.—The French cruiser Kersaint, which convoyed the French mail steamer Pacifique from Noumea last week, will leave on return to New Caledonia and the New Hebrides to-morrow afternoon. She will carry the mails which would have been taken by the Pacifique had the latter vessel not had to be detained in dock. The Kersaint will return to Port Jackson in December next.

Jurors and their Verdicts.—Counsel in an application in Chambers yesterday to change the venue of an action from a country district to Sydney gave as a reason that if the case was heard where the occurrence took place the verdict in all probability would be of a partisan nature. Mr. Acting Justice Ferguson was apparently taken aback by such a sweeping suggestion, and asked, "Am I to assume that residents in the district, from whom the jury would be selected, would not do their duty?" Counsel disavowed any intention of making such a reflection, and he explained his meaning thus:—"Of course your Honor will understand that any little vendetta like this permeates the whole district, and the residents support one side or the other. That could not happen in Sydney." His Honor, however, strongly deprecated the view submitted to him, and said he would certainly not give a decision that could be construed into any imputation whatever upon the jury who might try the case; and he decided the application upon the preponderating evidence as to the balance of convenience.

"Silly Legislation."—At a meeting of the Shopkeepers' Defence Association last night a letter was read from Mr. Frank Ward, acting on behalf of the "majority of the business people" of West Maitland, in which reference was made to the effects of the Saturday Half Holiday Act. At the outset the writer said he desired to express admiration at the spirited stand the association had taken against what he termed one of the most iniquitous laws in the British Empire. "Since the introduction of the Act," continued Mr. Ward, "I can positively assert that no less than seven businesses have been closed in West Maitland, leaving behind them empty shops that cannot be now let. Local commission agents have more businesses on their hands for sale than ever before. West Maitland has never asked for the change brought about by the Act, neither was any commission or vote taken, but the town was forced in with the other persecuted ones at the last moment. If the Shopkeepers' Defence Association is making arrangements for a campaign against this silly legislation, West Maitland will fight with you to the bitter end."

English Mail Delivery.—The English mail by the Orsova yesterday reached Sydney by the special train at 5.57 a.m.—17 minutes later than schedule time—and the letters were delivered by the morning post. The mails reached the General Post Office at 6.19 a.m., and correspondence for disposal by letter-carrier was sent out by the first delivery, viz., at 8 a.m., the sorting into the private boxes being completed by 9 a.m.

Sunday Picture Shows.—The picture show proprietors appear to be reconciling themselves to the new rules about Sunday exhibitions. The number of permits applied for last week doubled those of the previous Sunday. The total for the metropolis is very much less, however, than formerly. The usual applications averaged about 35, out of which seven were at Broken Hill, while for last Sunday there were only 13.

PERSONAL.

VICE-REGAL.

Her Excellency the Countess of Dudley, attended by Mr. Walter Callan and Captain Rome, left Sydney for Melbourne on Sunday evening.

His Excellency the Governor-General, accompanied by Adeline Duchess of Bedford, and attended by Sir Alexander Peckler, was present at the Sheffield Choir concert at the Sydney Town Hall last evening.

Mr. Nielsen, Minister for Lands in New South Wales, who is on a visit to Victoria, went to Sale last night in company with Mr. Elwood Mead, and will then proceed to Moffra to inspect the sugar beet works. Later in the week Mr. Nielsen will view the irrigation works and lands near Shepparton.

Mr. Tregle, Minister for Agriculture, left Brisbane yesterday morning en route to the North Coast districts, via the Tweed.

The Comptroller-General of Customs (Mr. N. C. Lockyer) returned to Melbourne yesterday after a visit to Sydney. During his stay Mr. Lockyer visited the Lithgow Ironworks, the Commonwealth Oil Corporation Works, Wolgan Valley, and the electric light and metal works at Mt. Kembla.

Our Wellington (N.Z.) correspondent says:—Mr. Hammond, aviator, has been operated on for appendicitis at Palmerston North. His condition is serious, and it will be 48 hours before a definite pronouncement can be made.

THE MAWSON EXPEDITION.

APPEAL TO AUSTRALIANS.

"S.M. HERALD" LIST.

An appeal is being made to Australians to assist an Australian in carrying out the first Australian expedition to the Antarctic. Dr. Mawson has made his call, and Australians are asked to respond for patriotic reasons, if for no other. Residents of the Commonwealth have always taken a deep interest in Antarctic exploration, but this expedition should have a deeper interest to them, because it is the first to be organised and led by an Australian.

Altogether, Dr. Mawson will require about £40,000 to properly fit him out. Of this amount £20,000 has already been collected here and in England, largely from Australians there, and now the leader of the expedition is coming to the Commonwealth to finish the work. Another £20,000 is needed. If the expedition is to be given a fair chance of winning success it should be sent out well equipped. Not only that, but it is unfair to send out an Australian party under financial difficulties both going and returning.

We have been asked to open a subscription list in the columns of the "Herald," and gladly do so. Any amounts sent in will be acknowledged in these columns day by day.

MINISTERIAL VISIT.

MR. GRIFFITH AT MOREE.

MOREE, Monday.

A Ministerial party, consisting of the Minister for Works (Mr. Griffith), Mr. G. A. Jones, M.L.A., and Mr. R. F. Jenkins (Works Department), on Saturday visited the proposed site of the railway trucking yards. The Minister thought it best to establish yards at Boolooroo and Wallon, and do away with proposed yards at Moree. He would see no object in the Commissioners erecting yards at Boolooroo, as he thought the railways ought to be arranged to suit the convenience of the people most likely to use them. The party subsequently toured by motor car, visiting Gil Gil, and from there inspecting the Kiga Bore. They also visited Delegilly Bore, and returned to Moree safely, notwithstanding the heavy state of the roads.

The party visited the district hospital on Sunday. The Mayor (Alderman Crane), president, referred to the necessity of new buildings being erected. The Minister promised to confer with his colleagues on the matter. The party motored to what is known as Greenbah Cutting. The Minister promised to take immediate steps to fill in the cutting pending general proposals in connection with the drainage of the watercourse.

Owing to the threatening weather, the visit to Combadello was abandoned.

The Mayor entertained the party at lunch, when a number of leading citizens attended. The Minister stated he was much impressed by the grandeur of the artesian waters, and compared the bore drains to veins supplying life blood to a grand district. The party left by train for Sydney this afternoon.

TRANSFERRED PROPERTIES.

SCHEME BEFORE CABINET.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

A scheme for reimbursements to the States on account of transferred properties will be submitted by the Acting Federal Treasurer, Mr. Frazer, to the Federal Cabinet on Wednesday. Mr. Frazer said to-day that the present seemed a favourable opportunity for determining some satisfactory method, although no payments could be made during the current year, as an appropriation had not been granted for the purpose. That, however, would not affect the date from which payment might be made. Any scheme to be acceptable would have to be applicable to all the States.

In answer to questions, Mr. Frazer said that he was not adverse to consultations with the Treasurers, but he thought no good could come from a formal conference, and he did not propose to summon one.

COMMONWEALTH AND STATE.

THE PER CAPITA BASIS.

QUESTION OF POPULATION.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Acting Federal Treasurer, Mr. Frazer, stated to-day that he was not in a position to say what method he would adopt to ascertain the exact population in each State on December 31 last year, in order that payments might be made from the Federal revenue on the per capita basis. Mr. Frazer added that he was bound by the law to make payments according to the population on that date, and he would have, therefore, to determine on the best evidence available as to what the population was. Whether that could be more accurately ascertained by working back from the census figures compiled on April 1, or from the official estimates issued at the end of last year, whose basis was the previous decennial census, was a matter for experts to report on, and he had asked the Commonwealth Statistician, Mr. Knibbs, to furnish a report on the subject.

TRAMWAY SYSTEMS.

CABLE AND ELECTRIC SERVICES.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Traffic Commission took evidence to-day. George Duncan, consulting engineer to the Tramway Company, said that he designed and supervised the construction of the company's tramway system. He read a statement, comparing the systems of Sydney (State owned), Glasgow (municipally owned), and Melbourne (controlled by a company). The figures, Mr. Duncan said, showed that the working cost per car mile of Melbourne tramways (7.34) was 33 per cent. less than that of the Sydney

IMPERIAL CONFERENCE.

DOUBLE INCOME TAX.

SHIPPING RATES PROBLEM.

FRIDAY'S DISCUSSIONS.

LONDON, June 19.

At the sitting of the Imperial Conference on Friday the following resolutions from the Dominions indicated were brought forward:—

"That it is inequitable that persons resident in the United Kingdom, who, under the laws of a self-governing colony, pay income or other tax to the Government of such colony in respect of income or profits derived from that colony, should have to pay further tax in respect of the same income or profits to the United Kingdom, and therefore it is most desirable that Imperial legislation be introduced to remove the disability. (New Zealand.)

"That it is desirable that an understanding be arrived at between the Imperial and the colonial Governments whereby the Imperial Exchequer in claiming payments for income tax and death duties should allow a deduction for payments fairly claimed for these purposes in the colonies." (South Africa.)

Sir Joseph Ward (New Zealand) said he recognised from Mr. Lloyd George's explanation at the sub-conference, where the matter had been fully discussed, that the proposed change was so serious as far as the British Government was concerned that it would make its acceptance impossible. But it would be very advantageous if some system could be arranged to mitigate or obviate the present hardship on income taxpayers.

General Botha (South Africa) said he was disappointed that so little progress had been made with the question since last conference. He suggested that the motherland should exempt persons with small incomes as long as they resided in one Dominion. The position might partly be met by extending the principle embodied in the Imperial death duties legislation if the home Government were unable to go the whole way. He suggested that where a resident of the United Kingdom invested money in the colonies he should pay only the difference between the colonial and the motherland's income taxes. This would eliminate British investment within, and would diminish the amount invested elsewhere.

Mr. Lloyd George said the abolition of the double income tax would involve a loss to the British Exchequer of two millions sterling yearly.

Great Britain, he continued, was the world's greatest lending country. She had three thousand millions invested overseas, and if the income tax revenue were made dependent on the amount charged in the countries where the money was invested, then it would cause the imposition of another penny, and later probably twopence, on people resident in Great Britain. It would be impossible for him to face such a contingency immediately after the great struggle of 1909-10.

Regarding the exemption suggested by General Botha, he said the amount was small, but there would be a difficulty in regard to administration. It would be impossible to check the accuracy of claims, and the authorities would be compelled to accept every claimant's statement. The final suggestion made by General Botha, which was now advanced for the first time, raised a point that was worthy of consideration. He would ascertain its possible effect, and decide on the matter later on.

General Botha said he hoped that there would soon be uniform legislation in regard to death duties in South Africa. He suggested that death duties should be charged against companies only in the country where they were registered.

Mr. Lloyd George remarked that the proposed concession regarding death duties would ultimately cost Great Britain's Exchequer two and a half millions sterling a year. The provision of the Finance act in question was applicable to 35 colonies, and the arrangement was generally satisfactory, although it did not appear to work well in South Africa. If the companies wanted the advantage of the British market, it was only fair that the Exchequer should tax them.

Mr. F. S. Malan (South Africa) asked if Mr. Lloyd George would consider the suggestion of paying the difference between the colonial and the Home taxes in connection with the death duties equally with the income tax.

Mr. Lloyd George promised to consider it, but it was rather a different matter, he said.

Both the resolutions were withdrawn.

COINAGE UNITS.

QUESTION OF SIMPLIFICATION.

Mr. Andrew Fisher (Australia) moved the following resolution:—

"That with a view to facilitating trade and commerce throughout the Empire, the consideration of the advisableness of recommending a reform of the present units of weights, measures, and coins ought to engage the earnest attention of this conference."

Sir Joseph Ward, in the course of a brief discussion, said that personally he favoured the recognition of sovereigns and dollars, and suggested a commission, with a view to considering the possibility of a uniform system.

Senator Pearce (Australia) said that Australians favoured the decimal system.

Mr. Lloyd George said that the adoption of the metric system would seriously disorganise trade, especially the cotton trade, and a double system recognising sovereigns and dollars would lead to serious confusion. He did not care to undertake the responsibility for such a revolutionary change.

The subject was dropped.

SHIPPING CONFERENCES.

FURTHER DEBATE.

The following resolution by Sir David Graaf (South Africa) was further considered:—

"That concerted action be taken by all Governments of the Empire to promote better trade and postal communications between Great Britain and the overseas Dominions, and in particular to discourage shipping conferences or combines for the control of freight rates between the various portions of the Empire."

Mr. Sydney Buxton, President of the Board of Trade, suggested the addition of the following words, "in so far as such combines are prejudicial to trade." He stated that he must not, however, be considered to be necessarily agreeing with all Sir David Graaf's arguments or conclusions. They must look at the question from a more general standpoint.

He reminded the conference in connection with the Royal Commission on Rebates, in 1906, whereon the Dominions were represented, that neither the majority nor the minority report had made very drastic suggestions. They proposed not the abolition of rebates, but the creation of associations of those concerned with certain powers to be conferred by the Board of Trade. The initiative regarding the carrying out of the proposals had been largely left to the parties interested, but the shippers, merchants, traders, and manufacturers had not manifested any desire to press the Board of Trade to legislate.

Recently he had invited a conference of parties interested to meet him at the Board of Trade, but the support they were prepared to give any drastic legislation was not encouraging. The fact was, there was a considerable difference of opinion as to how far under proper conditions shipping conferences and the system they involved would be advantageous or disadvantageous to a country's trade, and in view of the magnitude of the mercantile marine it was not easy to legislate concerning its interests unless there was a considerable body of opinion behind him. "But the Government," he concluded, "will keep the matter under consideration, and watch developments in South Africa and elsewhere."

Mr. L. P. Brodeur (Canada) said the Dominion had no serious objection to the motion, but he stated that a great injustice had been done to Canada, not by the shipping conferences, but by the British insurance combine inserting a clause in the policies imposing higher premiums on a ship entering a British North American port.

Senator Pearce (Australia) remarked that experience had set Australians very definitely against rebates. Legislation in connection with the coastal trade had proved that the suppression of rebates had not interfered with the regularity of service, the stability of rates or other matters beneficial to the trade. The conference system would be a distinct disadvantage to the United Kingdom. He was surprised that Mr. S. Buxton had not received more support from British traders, with a view to his taking action in the matter.

The Royal Commission had shown that under shipping conference lines the preferential system had operated in favour of the United States as against Britain. It had also disclosed the fact that the system had extended to the Australian overseas' trade. There was a strong agitation in Australia in favour of the Government owning the lines running between Australia and Britain, in order to prevent the producer from being exploited and deprived of the profits of his market. He mentioned the recent mail contract fixing freight rates, etc.

Sir Joseph Ward considered that South Africa had a substantial grievance, and he supported the resolution, though, as far as New Zealand was concerned, he was unable to agree with all Sir David Graaf's arguments. South Africa, he said, had special difficulties.

New Zealand must also study the particular needs of her own people. Owing to the peculiarities of her trade and position rebates did not exist in connection with her overseas trade. Many traders were compelled to pay double rates for special articles of commerce. Large refrigerating steamers were required for frozen meat and dairy produce, and if tramp steamers were given the ordinary cargo not requiring refrigerating accommodation double rates would have to be paid for the frozen meat and dairy produce. He had always insisted on the smallest producer being placed on an equality with the largest shipper. New Zealand, on the whole, had placed the shipping business on a satisfactory footing, but he recognised South Africa's difficulties.

Sir David Graaf said that South Africa intended to proceed until she had obtained reasonable rates and conditions.

The resolution as amended was agreed to.

AERONAUTICS.

PARIS-BRUSSELS-LONDON RACE.

THE FIRST STAGE.

PARIS, June 19.

Forty competitors started yesterday in the Paris-Brussels-London aeroplane race. A total of 700,000 spectators watched the start.

Leadron, one of the competitors, fell at Chateau Thierry, and was incinerated through an explosion of his petrol tank firing the aeroplane.

BRUSSELS, June 19.

M. Vidart monoplaned from Paris to Liege, a distance of 203 miles, in 3 hours 9 minutes 54 seconds.

M. Vedrines and M. Weyman arrived within four hours of the starting time, and four others arrived later.

PROTECTING THE PUBLIC.

THE HAGUE, June 18.

Owing to the death of M. Berteaux, Minister of War in France, who was killed recently by a falling aeroplane, the municipality is prohibiting the passage of aeroplanes and airships over the capital.

LIEUTENANT PRINCETEAUX'S DEATH.

PARIS, June 18.

Lieutenant Princeteau, whose Blériot aeroplane fell and caught fire while he was practising for the Paris-Brussels-London race, in the presence of his brother, made superhuman efforts to make his escape by crawling through the wreckage, but the smoke suffocated him.

The flames were so fierce that the wreckage was unapproachable.

M. Daiger, a third competitor for the race, was severely injured at Soissons.

SHOCKING TRAGEDY AT BUDA PEST.

BUDA PEST, June 19.

A novice in the aviation field yesterday lost control of his aeroplane, which dashed towards a number of spectators. The propeller decapitated a girl.

THE SEAMEN'S STRIKE.

STILL SPORADIC.

CONCILIATION BOARD QUESTION.

LONDON, June 18.

The seamen's strike is still sporadic.

Shipowners oppose the creation of a conciliation board, as they argue that upwards of half the members of a trade union are always absent, therefore unable to be consulted, and their absence is calculated to put undue power in the hands of trades union leaders.

STRIKE ON A BARQUE.

ANTWERP, June 18.

The barque Loch Torridon sailed, but had to return, as the crew demanded an increase in wages.

MEN GAINING CONCESSIONS.

LONDON, June 19.

A thousand seamen and firemen at Hull have struck.

The Allan and Donaldson lines at Glasgow have conceded the increased wages demanded.

Several shipowners in London have also made concessions.

The "Times" states that a complete victory would give the seamen an average advance of £10 per annum, involving British shipping in an increased burden of £1,375,000 yearly.

PLOT IN PORTUGAL.

MONARCHIST MOVEMENT.

SMUGGLED ARMS SEIZED.

LISBON, June 18.

Three waggons containing quick-firing guns and revolvers, which had been smuggled from Galicia, Spain, were seized at Vigo, four waggons having passed undetected.

The Government has discovered the existence of a Monarchist plot in the south of Portugal.

The prisoners arrested include Count Arnil and Dr. Abel Campos.

TRIAL OF CAMORRISTS.

CONFLICTING EVIDENCE.

ROME, June 18.

The conflicting evidence at the trial of Camorrists for the murder of Cuocolo and his wife at Viterbo amounts to a scandal.

Some of the depositions have been withdrawn, and several witnesses will be prosecuted for perjury.

Hitherto there has been little real evidence against the prisoners.

SUSPECTED POISONED MILK.

LONDON, June 19.

Thirty Roman Catholic working boys in a home at Edinburgh were seized with illness, apparently caused by an irritant poison. One has died, but the others are progressing towards recovery. A number of residents in the vicinity are ill, and the milk supply is suspected.

THE SUFFRAGISTS.

LONDON, June 18.

Lady Stout marched in the procession of women yesterday from the Thames Embankment to the Albert Hall.

Mrs. How-Martyn presided at a meeting in the Kensington Town Hall.

It was announced at the Albert Hall meeting that the propaganda fund had now reached a total of £100,000.

TERRIFIC THUNDERSTORMS.

LONDON, June 18.

Terrific thunderstorms have occurred in Lancashire.

Hailstones an inch in diameter fell at Hastingden, and lightning caused a fatality at Accrington.

VOYAGE OF THE FRAM.

CHRISTIANIA, June 18.

Mr. Christoffersen, a Norwegian resident of Buenos Ayres, is defraying the cost of provisioning and the outfit of the Fram, Captain Amundsen's vessel, until Captain Amundsen's return from the Antarctic.

A cablegram on Tuesday last stated that the Fram had started on a scientific cruise between South America and South Africa, upon which she is to be engaged until the time comes for her return to the Antarctic to pick up Captain Amundsen and his party.

IMPERIAL IDEAS.

INTERNATIONAL SCHOOLS.

SPEECH BY SIR JOSEPH WARD.

LONDON, June 18.

Sir Joseph Ward, Premier of New Zealand, speaking at a gathering of British and colonial technical students of the International Correspondence Schools, at the Festival of Empire, congratulated the organisation on having 100,000 students throughout the world.

He said he would follow the Australian Postmaster-General's example and urge the officials of the department to join the organisation. The Imperial Conference would be glad to receive assistance in any movement similar to this in assisting the dissemination of Imperial ideas. While probably not agreeing in details he hoped the leaders of the organisation would impress their correspondents with the all-important consideration, in view of developments in other countries, of Great Britain having a world-wide navy for the protection of various parts of the Empire.

THE ANTARCTIC.

DR. MAWSON'S EXPEDITION.

DEEP-SEA DREDGING.

LONDON, June 18.

Dr. Mawson is going to Paris to discuss with the Prince of Monaco the best deep-sea dredging gear.

The Prince has already arranged for one of the scientific staff to undergo training at the Oceanographical Laboratory at Monaco.

Dr. Mawson states that the Newfoundland whaler Aurora, which he has purchased for his Antarctic expedition, has been dry-docked. She is a roomy ship, but a little smaller than the Terra Nova, the vessel which conveyed Captain Scott's expedition.

It was announced in April that the Prince of Monaco was to present Dr. Mawson with a deepsea dredging apparatus.

UNREST IN INDIA.

DACCA CONSPIRACY CASE.

CALCUTTA, June 18.

The Assessors in connection with the Dacca conspiracy case have found the 42 prisoners not guilty. They described the Government evidence as unreliable, and the evidence of the police spies as worthless and incredible. They added that the organisation was intended to relieve the helpless and suffering and to promote physical culture.

MUST STAND TOGETHER.

MOTHERLAND AND COLONIES.

"NO SUCH THING AS PARTY."

LONDON, June 19.

Speaking at the luncheon tendered the overseas Prime Ministers at the Constitutional Club yesterday Sir Joseph Ward said that when he left New Zealand, though he belonged to a particular party, he represented every party in the Dominion, and while in London he and his colleagues at the Imperial Conference were non-party politicians.

Continuing, he said that he, too, cherished Mr. Balfour's dream in regard to the Empire of the future. He recognised that in peace time the motherland did not require the assistance of the overseas Dominions, but in time of trouble they all must stand together.

The Dominions were less dependent than formerly on the material assistance of the motherland. At the same time there was a possibility of great danger in the years to come unless they had some system of giving the Dominions a more direct voice in the direction of Imperial concerns. As an outcome of the interchange of views at the Imperial Conference, however, some good ought to be achieved.

He heartily agreed with Mr Balfour's statement, that there ought in the great overriding Imperial affairs to be no such thing as party. The interests and responsibility were too big.

If they were expected to do something for the general good, he added, they must educate their people Imperially, and get them to act Imperially, and from that standpoint he believed that the visit of men from the overseas Dominions to the motherland could not fail to make for the advantage of the common Empire.

PRINCE KROPOTKIN ILL.

BERNE, June 18.

Prince Peter Alexeivitch Kropotkin is in a critical state of health at Locarno.

Prince Kropotkin, the Russian geographer and nihilist and author, was born in Moscow in 1842. He became secretary to the Physical Geography Section of the Geographical Society. In 1871, at the request of the society, he set out to explore the glaciers of Finland and Sweden. Next year, in Belgium and Switzerland, he came under the influence of socialist and anarchist teachings, and subsequently became one of the most enthusiastic members of the International Working Men's Association. On his return to Russia he was betrayed to the authorities, arrested, and confined, first in the fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul, and later in the military hospital of St. Petersburg, whence he escaped in 1876 to England. Next year he went to Geneva, where he became the head of the socialists and nihilistic agitation. He was banished from Switzerland in 1881, and in 1883 was arrested at Lyons on a charge of anarchist incitement and condemned to five years' imprisonment, but was pardoned in January, 1886, and conducted to the frontier. He once more sought asylum in England, where he has lived practically ever since. Among his writing are "Memoirs of a Revolutionist," "Fields, Factories, and Workshops," "Researches on the Glacial Period," "The Dessication of Asia," and "Ideals and Realities in Russian Literature."

NEXT LABOUR CONFERENCE.

NEW BASIS OF REPRESENTATION.

REDUCING NUMBER OF DELEGATES.

During the last two years the annual conference of the Political Labour League has grown to such an extent that it has become unwieldy. On the old basis of representation leagues which had a comparatively small numerical strength were entitled to two delegates, and it was found that there were altogether too many delegates at the conference to conduct the business in a speedy manner.

At the last conference, at which there were over 800 resolutions to be discussed by close upon 500 delegates, matters reached a climax. The conference was described at times as "chaotic," and on several occasions had to be adjourned when it got completely out of hand. It was realised that something would have to be done to reduce the conference to something more like the size of a deliberative body; and it was decided that a special conference should be called this year to decide upon the basis of future representation.

A special committee was some time ago appointed by the P.L.L. executive in furtherance of the decision of conference to draft a scheme for the basis of future representation. The committee has now submitted its report to the executive, and its proposals will be submitted to the special conference, when it is called. The committee suggests:—

League representation at conference shall be upon a Federal elector 'e basis, and according to the following scale—1000 members or under, 1 delegate; 1001 to 4000 members, 2; 4001 to 8000, 3; 8001 or over, 4 delegates.

The trades-unions shall be represented on the same scale.

An additional woman delegate may be elected for each Federal electorate.

The representation of the Labour Council of New South Wales, 4, Newcastle Labour Council, 1, and Women's Central Organising Committee, 2 delegates. It is recommended, shall not be disturbed.

It is estimated that the scheme would reduce the representatives at the next general conference to 187, of which union delegates would number 117, league delegates 65, and councils, etc., 5 delegates.

WOODLUPINE TRAGEDY.

VERDICT OF WILFUL MURDER.

PERTH, Monday.

The inquest on Frances Compton Young, the woman who was murdered in the bush at Woodlupine, six miles from Perth, on May 13, was concluded to-day.

The medical evidence showed the girl had been violated, and that death was caused by heart failure, resulting from shock and exhaustion, due to struggling and partial suffocation. Evidence was also given that blood and other incriminating stains had been found on the clothes belonging to David Horatio Smitsson, who was present in custody on a charge of wilful murder.

The coroner, Mr. Roe, commenting on the tracks at the scene of the murder, said it was claimed by the Crown that the man who wore boots which were claimed to be Smithson's, murdered Frances Compton. The jury, after a retirement of 40 minutes found that deceased was wilfully murdered by Smithson.

The accused was then committed for trial. It is probable that the question of Smithson's sanity will be raised in the Criminal Court.

GIRL SHOT.

ACCIDENT AT SEA.

FREMANTLE, Monday.

During the voyage of the steamer Roon, which arrived this evening, a sad shooting accident occurred, the result of which was that a little girl named Edith Coose, a passenger for this State, was landed in Port Said in a critical condition. From the particulars gleaned on board it appears that a young third-class passenger named Bohmo was cleaning a revolver in his cabin, unaware that it was loaded. He was showing it to a fellow passenger when it suddenly went off. The bullet passed through the cabin partition and entered the temple of the girl.

STRANGE FIRES.

GRAFTON, Monday.

The Saxonian Hotel, Dobie-street, which was burned to the ground at 1 o'clock to-day, was closed under the local option vote about 10 days ago. The late licensee, Mr. F. B. Eggins had his furniture in the building, most of which was saved. The hotel property belonged to the estate of the late Sir Julian Salomons, and was insured for £600. The furniture was insured for £150.

A second fire broke out this evening in a wine shop in Victoria-street, which was also closed under the local option vote ten days ago, but was extinguished before much damage was done.

THE GOVERNOR-GENERAL.

ADMIRALTY HOUSE AS A RESIDENCE.

THE NEW NAVAL HEADQUARTERS.

The Government is likely to have two residences available in the near future for turning into art museums, or for any other purposes Ministers may think fit. One is Admiralty House, and the other "Tresco," in Elizabeth Bay, the residence of the officer-in-charge of Garden Island.

When Auckland becomes the headquarters of the Pacific squadron of the Imperial navy, on the expiration of the subsidy agreement, the Admiral will make his home there, and the fine property at Kirribilli Point will revert to the State. With this in view it was suggested by a member of the Labour party yesterday that Admiralty House might be used for the future accommodation of the Governor-General. It is not leased in any way, the Government simply providing a residence for the Admiral in command of the squadron. "Tresco" is a property of 2 roods 18 perches in extent. It is a leasehold of 99 years from 1865, acquired by the Government in 1904. It will also become vacant when the naval change is made.

The Federal Government will probably have to find a residence in Sydney for the head of the Australian navy at some future time; but as that contingency is a long way off, State and Commonwealth are not likely to commence bargaining for the house just now.

PROPOSED MEETING OF PROTEST.

A deputation consisting of Senator Walker, Messrs. Abercrombie, W. Carson, J. F. Burrows, Captain J. H. Booker, and other gentlemen was introduced to the Lord Mayor yesterday by Alderman Hagon, who said they desired that a public meeting should be called to protest against the proposals of the State Government in regard to Federal Government House in this city. Before the deputation had more than broken ground the Lord Mayor pointed out that the proper course for the deputation to have followed in the matter was to have obtained a requisition to the Lord Mayor asking that a meeting should be called. This would be dealt with in the ordinary way.

Captain Booker said that he could get 500 signatures to such a requisition in a very short time. The feeling was very strong on the subject.

The Lord Mayor: I don't think we need discuss the subject at this stage. If the requisition is sent to me and I see that it is the wish of the public that a meeting shall be called I will comply with the requisition and preside at the meeting. That is the usual course adopted.

The deputation then withdrew.

PECULIAR SHOOTING CASE.

EXCITEMENT AT WAVERLEY.

A DOCTOR'S EXPERIENCE.

The sound of a revolver shot and excited shouts caused something of a sensation in St. James'-road, Waverley, about 5 o'clock last evening.

Dr. Burge, of Waverley, was walking down the road, when a bottle-dealer, who was driving down the street, caught sight of him. He immediately drove over towards the doctor, and pulling up his horse a few feet from the kerb said in a loud voice, "Say, what have you been doing to me?" The doctor, thinking that the man had mistaken him for someone else, replied that he didn't know, whereupon the man pulled out a six-chambered revolver from his pocket, and, with the words "I can show you something," presented it at the doctor. The sight of the muzzle of the weapon but a few feet away, and pointing directly for his heart, convinced the doctor that the man meant mischief, and deeming discretion the better part of valour, he incontinently took to his heels and sped down the street at his top speed. His assailant, with a loud, exaggerated burst of laughter, stood up in his cart and fired. The shot struck the pavement, ricocheting up against the wall of a house. The man then drove off.

Later Constables Francis, Batten, and Kennedy arrested a man and charged him with shooting with intent. On his person was found a six-chambered revolver, with one of the cartridge discharged. The other five chambers were loaded, but the cartridges were inert.

THEATRES AND UNIONS.

"HARASSING" BUSINESS.

MANAGERS TO COMBINE.

A movement is on foot to form an Industrial Association of theatrical managers with a view to dealing with the unions formed in connection with theatrical enterprises. The following circular has been received by the majority of the theatrical managers:—

"From time to time there are questions which arise which affect the theatrical managers of Australia as a whole, but it is very difficult to secure a meeting of representatives if any action is required on any matter. This is particularly the case in relation to demands of the various unions connected with the theatre, and more are being formed to further increase expense and harass business in some respects.

"Your object in writing to you is to secure a meeting of the theatrical managers on a date suitable to the majority, form an association and appoint special committees, and take other means to safeguard the interests of managers.

"Will you therefore kindly intimate what date would be suitable for you, and if you are in favour of taking such an action in the managers' interests as a whole?"

So far the biggest theatrical firms, which have agreements working in a satisfactory fashion with different sections of their employees, have not shown an inclination to come into the movement. The tone of the letter is, however, very strongly resented by the Musicians' Union and the Theatrical Employees' Federation, the secretaries of which declare that there is no desire to harass business, but rather to assist it by placing all firms on an equality in regard to the rates of wages to be paid, and the conditions to be observed.

SHIPPING MISHAPS.

WRECK AT PORT STEPHENS.

KETCH DRIVEN ASHORE.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

Another wreck occurred at Port Stephens at about 2 p.m. to-day, when the ketch Ida, loaded with timber, oil, and merchandise for New Guinea, was blown on to the beach in Nelsons Bay. The Ida was lying at anchor in the bay, when she was struck by a sudden westerly squall. The anchor chain snapped, and the little vessel was soon driven up on to the beach here. She became a total wreck, but luckily the three men who were on the vessel at the time were able to gain the shore without sustaining injury. Arrangements were made at Port Stephens for the accommodation of the three men. A telegram was received from Captain Weaver to the following effect:—"Ketch Ida parted chains at 2.30, in spite of kedge. Was on shore in five minutes. Bottom rocks. Managed to get a few valuables out. Will sell ship and cargo to-morrow, at 11, on behalf of whom it may concern. All my own effects gone, except chronometer. Was last ashore."

VESSEL BREAKING UP.

The barquentine Pelotas, which got ashore at Wanganui, is a total wreck, and is breaking up. Information to this effect was posted at the Royal Exchange yesterday afternoon. The Pelotas is a wooden vessel, 251 tons, built in Christiansand in 1897, and owned by Mr. T. M. Lane. The vessel took from Newcastle a cargo of hardwood from Wanganui.

GANGER KILLED.

MUSWELLBROOK, Monday.

The District Coroner (Mr. Thos. Border) commenced an inquiry on Saturday into the circumstances surrounding the death of Ganger Edward Blunt, who was run over by the Brisbane mail train on Thursday night. He was seen about just prior to the departure of the train watching the fireman taking in the water. Two minutes later, after the train had departed northwards, he was found lying on the railway line with his legs severed, his left hand, which was in his side pocket cut, crushed, and also a wound on the head. He was about 30 years of age, intelligent, and sober. Senior-sergeant Donnelly, who conducted the inquiry, applied for a remand for eight days, which was granted. Blunt's hat has since been found on the railway line a quarter of a mile from the scene of the accident.

A WESTERLY GALE.

Early this morning the strong westerly wind at Sydney Heads had increased to the force of a gale, and rain was falling.

THE ALL-BLACKS.

PROFESSIONAL OR AMATEUR?

"CORONATION" OF THE RUGBY LEAGUE.

FROM 4d TO £3000.

An enthusiastic welcome was last night accorded to the visiting All Blacks by the New South Wales Rugby League at the Arcadia Hotel.

Mr. J. Joynton Smith, president of the league, in welcoming the All Blacks, said that they were entertaining a truly representative New Zealand team, for the Maoris were amongst the visitors. He had heard a lot about professionalism. If the establishing of a medical fund to pay for injuries constituted professionalism, then they would find professionalism in many other branches of sport. The game in New South Wales wore a different aspect from what it did in the old days. Now they had the Agricultural and Sports Grounds, some suburban ovals, and lastly the Sydney Cricket Ground. In the past this State had learned a lot of the fine points of the game from the New Zealanders. Now, in the league games, the New South Welshmen knew all the fine points, and very good contests were anticipated, especially in view of the selection of the team for England, which would be picked absolutely on its merits. (Applause.)

Mr. H. R. Miller, in proposing the toast of the visiting team, said they were a powerful combination, worthy of the team they were to meet. By playing on the Sydney Cricket Ground they would participate in what might fitly be called the coronation of the Rugby League. As to professionalism, he contended that the league was justified in reimbursing the players for loss of time. The players brought in the money, and should participate in the profits. He was given to understand that next year the Rugby Union would disband, and the control of that branch of the game would be handed over to the City and Suburban Association.

Mr. H. M. Somer, supporting the toast, said that they had enjoyed a great treat when the British team was here, and they anticipated quite as good a time with the New Zealanders. The league had practically wiped out all opposition in Sydney.

Mr. J. B. Moffit supported the toast, and said that when he went into the game the league had fourpence in the bank, while today they had £3000.

The toast was drunk with enthusiasm.

Mr. E. Phelan, responding for the visitors, said that the key to the success of the league was that they had the men behind the guns. In New Zealand the union was a very rich body, and the lack of grounds was a great handicap to the league. They should sit on the word professionalism whenever they heard it. The members of the New Zealand team were purely amateurs. When they got suitable grounds the game would go ahead the same as it had done in New South Wales. There had been no payments to secure recruits. The latest to come over were not paid to desert the union.

Mr. H. Powell also responded, and said that the Maoriianders were a strong team, quite capable of defeating the New South Welshmen.

Mr. W. Durvan and Mr. C. Dunning (captain) also responded, and the captain called on his team to give the Maori war cry.

Mr. Phelan submitted the toast of the N.S.W. League, and Messrs E. Hooper and J. Quinlan responded. The latter said that in the old days the crack players drew big crowds, and at half-time received, perhaps, a lemon in return. But now, if the League got good money, they shared it the men who got the knocks and drew the crowds participate. There should be no reason to be ashamed, of the word professional. He was a "pro.," and yet felt as good a sport as any amateur. (Applause.)

Mr. Dunning proposed the health of the N.S.W. team, and Mr. H. Flegg responded.

Mr. J. Joynton Smith announced that Mr. Daily Messenger had been selected to captain the New South Wales team on Thursday.

The toast of the visitors was honoured, and Mr. L. G. Abrams responded, and said that the League was the thing of all games. The term professional was a misnomer in Australia.

NEW ZEALAND TEAM SELECTED.

The N.Z. selectors have chosen the following team to represent the Dominion against New South Wales on Thursday:—Full-back, E. Asher; three-quarters, F. Woodward, E. Buckland, and R. Siddels; five-eighths, G. Gillett and F. Morse; half-back, G Smith; forwards, A. R. Francis, J. Rukutai, T. Mason, C. Savoury, C. Dunning, and H. Stanaway. Reserves, J. Seagar and R. Sprague.

FLOODS IN VICTORIA.

SEVERE RESULTS FEARED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The Minister for Lands, Mr. M'Kenzie, said he thought the outlook in some parts of the State was very serious. There had not been such rains in his district of Echuca since 1870. He never saw anything to surpass them. As he came down to Melbourne to-day he saw floods everywhere. He was afraid that the next few days would prove disastrous to many districts.

The Chief Commissioner for Police to-day gave instructions for telegrams to be sent to the police stations throughout the eastern and south-eastern districts of Victoria directing the officers in charge of them to lose no time in warning residents of low-lying lands that very severe floods are expected in that part of the State.

The Minister for Water Supply, Mr. Graham, to-day received a telegram from Alexandra saying that the Goulburn was rising rapidly, and that it was expected to reach a record height there.

Officers of the Public Works Department are taking action with the object of minimising the damage from the Goulburn flood as far as possible.

Yesterday morning a break occurred in the newly-constructed bank known as Tuckett's Bend at Nathalia. A gang of men hurriedly effected repairs

SHEFFIELD CHOIR.

JOINS PHILHARMONIC.

AN IMPOSING PERFORMANCE.

Mendelssohn's "Elijah" stands next to Handel's "Messiah" in the public estimation of oratorio-lovers, and this fact, combined with the knowledge that the Sheffield choir was to unite for the first time with the Royal Sydney Philharmonic Society, resulted in an enormous attendance last night at the Town Hall, where crowds of people had to be refused admission at the doors. A new financial record was established. At the Sunday In the same office plans are in course of preparation for another large-sized theatre in one of the main towns on the northern rivers. It is to be built prior to the opening of the Grafton section of the North Coast Railway. Mr. C. Spencer, of the Lyceum, is also about to establish an extensive biograph studio of the same proportions as those of England, America, and the Continent. He has secured a block of four acres at Rushcutter Bay, and Mr. John Reid, architect, is preparing plans for a fully-equipped, open-air theatre, where two scenes will be erected at once. In addition, the grounds are to be laid out to represent various scenes necessary for making pictures of different types. The undertaking will be something new to Australia, and will be on a large and up-to-date scale.

It is also proposed to erect a large theatre in Brisbane, from Sydney plans, and a proposal is on foot to build another large place of amusement in George-street, Brickfield Hill.

The Melbourne theatre will be erected on a site in Bourke-street near Spring-street, now occupied by the Douglass Hotel. It will be in the amphitheatre style. The seats will gradually rise tier after tier from the front; there will be no galleries, and no obstructions to the view arising from columns, etc. The stage will be 52 feet wide, and 32 feet in depth, while the auditorium will be 140 feet by 62 feet. Provision will be made at the rear of the stage for two tiers of dressing rooms, and other accommodation. The exits from the auditorium will be seven in number, giving a total of 60 feet in width. The entrance vestibule leading to the theatre will be 48 feet by 20 feet.

The theatre for the same company to be built at Newtown, will be erected on a site in King-street, near the railway bridge. This will provide seating accommodation for 2500. The building will have a frontage to King-street of 80 feet by a depth of 182 feet. The interior is also to be arranged on the amphitheatre style. The stage will be 46 feet by 25 feet, with all the necessary dressing-room accommodation and other appurtenances. The entrance vestibule is to be 42 feet by 32 feet. The theatre to be built at Newcastle for the same company will provide accommodation for 1600. The stage will be 43 feet long by 25 feet in width. In this building will be a dress circle, with accommodation for 400 persons. A refreshing room is also to be provided at the Hotel Grand Central to-day. The business paper contains the following notices of motion:—

"That the members of this association consider and devise some workable scheme that can be put into operation whereby a constant flow of information emanating from our association can be conveyed to the producers of the industry."

"That this association consider the advisableness of establishing an annual competitive winter dairy produce exhibition in connection with the conference on a sound educational basis."

"That this conference discuss the matter of grade certificates, and the manner in which they are issued. That the churning marks, number of churns, and grade points awarded to each churn mark should be shown on certificate together with the exact date on which each lot was graded."

"That this conference consider and discuss the present method of fixing the price of butter on the local market."

LORD MAYOR'S SILVER WEDDING.

The Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress last night celebrated their silver wedding by inviting about 100 of the employees of Allen Taylor and Co. to their residence, "Wootton," Darlinghurst, which was beautifully illuminated for the occasion. Among other guests were the Minister for Mines (Mr. Alfred Edden), Mr. W. G. Layton (Deputy Town Clerk), Alderman A. J. Kelly, Alderman Evan Jones, and Mr. S. M. M'C. Anderson. Mr. F. A. Sargeant, on behalf of the employees, presented the Lord Mayor with a framed picture of the works of the firm, a grouped portrait of the employees, and a silver ornament, and spoke in the highest terms of the Lord Mayor as an employer and as a citizen. Captain O'Beirne and Captain Rosen also spoke on behalf of the employees, and Mr. Edden said it seemed to him that the Lord Mayor had no other object in view but to elevate his fellow-men, and to do the best he could for the city. The Lord Mayor referred to the cordial relations which had always existed between the firm and the employees.

Medicine Man: "What is the matter with your Majesty?"

Cannibal King: "Oh, I've an awful indigestion."

"What have you been eating?"

"I've just polished off an American millionaire."

"Good heavens! No wonder you are ill. I've told you repeatedly to beware of anything rich."

BUILDINGS AND WORKS.

PROGRESS OF THE TRADE.

BATCH OF NEW THEATRES.

At the present time a number of new theatres are being tendered for in the office of Messrs. Eaton and Bates, architects. They will be built in Melbourne, Newcastle, Newtown, and Balmain. Three of them are to be known as Amphitheatres, Ltd., and the fourth is for the Balmain Amusement Company. In the same office plans are in course of preparation for another large-sized theatre in one of the main towns on the northern rivers. It is to be built prior to the opening of the Grafton section of the North Coast Railway. Mr. C. The business paper contains the following notices of motion:—

"That the members of this association consider and devise some workable scheme that can be put into operation whereby a constant flow of information emanating from our association can be conveyed to the producers of the industry."

"That this association consider the advisableness of establishing an annual competitive winter dairy produce exhibition in connection with the conference on a sound educational basis."

"That this conference discuss the matter of grade certificates, and the manner in which they are issued. That the churning marks, number of churns, and grade points awarded to each churn mark should be shown on certificate together with the exact date on which each lot was graded."

"That this conference consider and discuss the present method of fixing the price of butter on the local market."

GENERAL NOTES.

Tenders were opened yesterday to build workshops at the Technical College, Newcastle. Only two prices were sent in, the lowest was £11,000, and as this is below the departmental estimate the work will probably be proceeded with at once.

Two contracts were let in the office of Messrs. Eaton and Bates, architects, last week for the erection of two blocks of city buildings. One will be a five-story brick building, in Wilmot-street, for housing the Catholic Press Newspaper Company. It will be an up-to-date office. The other building will provide new premises for McCarron, Stewart, and Co., in Goulburn-street, near George-street. This will be a brick structure of four stories, finished in O.K. brickwork and cement dressings.

Messrs. Slatyer and Shiels, architects, are preparing plans for additions and alterations to premises in Long-street, and for additions to premises in Castlereagh-street.

Mr. Burcham Clamp, architect, is preparing plans for alterations and additions to shop premises, Corso, Manly.

Mr. R. J. Collins, architect, has prepared plans for a residence at Mosman, cottages at Chatswood, and Leichhardt, and for three shops and dwellings at North Sydney.

Closing dates have been fixed by architects as follows:—By Mr. G. McKinnon, 29th instant, for refreshment rooms, dressing sheds, etc., at Bathurst; on the same date, for two residences, Victoria-street, Darlinghurst; and by Mr. R. Lount, on Friday next, for residence, Cremorne, and a motor garage at Lewisham on the same day. By Messrs. Nixon and Son, July 4, for a cottage at Strathfield; by Mr. Sydney Jones, erection of a residence at Manly, June 30; for additions to a residence at Potts Point, June 24; by Mr. G. W. Durrell, Governor Bourke Hotel, Camperdown, next Friday; by Messrs. Buchanan and McKay, extensive walling at Waterloo, 21st instant.

In the office of Messrs. Eaton and Bates, architects, plans are being prepared for a residence at Pymble, a factory at corner of Bourke and Phillip streets, Waterloo, a large hotel at Bowraville, and a residence at Vaucluse.

SHOPKEEPERS IN PROTEST.

SATURDAY HALF-HOLIDAY.

A meeting of shopkeepers, convened under the auspices of the Shopkeepers' Defence Association, was held last night at Goatley's Hall, Hay-street, for the purpose of furthering the movement organised to overcome "all forms of restrictive legislation, including the Saturday Half-holiday Act." Mr. George D. Turner, president, occupied the chair.

The chairman said that what was wanted was efficient and capable legislation, and the shopkeepers were determined to find the right men and place them in Parliament. Organisation had set in, and there was no knowing where it was going to stop, unless the people took action to protect themselves.

Mr. H. Wise (North Sydney) said he represented a number of shopkeepers in the northern suburbs. It was inconceivable that any community should tolerate such restrictions. The shopkeepers had been betrayed by the Liberal party, and they were now scorned by the Labour party. The men who were put into Parliament to represent the people were drawn from an ignorant class. It was quite time that a direct representative of the shopkeepers should be in Parliament. The executive should consider the question of running a member in their interests.

A number of other speakers addressed the meeting in support of the movement. Mr. E. J. Morgan was appointed secretary of the association. It was decided to hold a series of meetings throughout the suburbs, and throughout the country districts, with a view to bringing effective pressure to bear on the Government.

TROUBLE AT WOLLONGONG.

The half-holiday question at Wollongong has now reached an interesting stage. Mr. Beeby, on a petition from the employers, through Mr. J. B. Nicholson, recently exempted the town from the Saturday half-holiday. Now the Minister is to be asked to reverse the decision, through the member, on a petition from the employees. The petition is to be carried at the decision in the first instance on the representations made that Wollongong was essentially a Saturday business town, and it was the gathering centre for the working people of the district, who on that day have their pay, and spend the rest at home. The protest decided upon by the business people against the proposed application to the town of the Saturday half-holiday law was looked upon simply as an act of self-preservation.

On the side of the shop assistants it is claimed that the majority did not favour the Wednesday half-holiday, and that their opponents had been going round with a petition favouring that day. They claimed that other mining towns had the privilege, and why not Wollongong? The people, it was stated, would soon adapt themselves to the new condition of things, and no business would be lost. It was further claimed that the meeting of employees was equally as representative as that of the employers. On the other hand, from investigations made it was found that a big proportion of the shop assistants in Wollongong favour Wednesday, and it was stated by many that if a vote were taken by ballot Saturday would be knocked out.

FACTORY MANAGERS' CONFERENCE.

The annual conference of the Co-operative Dairy Factory Managers and Secretaries' Association of New South Wales will be opened at the Hotel Grand Central to-day. The business paper contains the following notices of motion:—

"That the members of this association consider and devise some workable scheme that can be put into operation whereby a constant flow of information emanating from our association can be conveyed to the producers of the industry."

"That this association consider the advisableness of establishing an annual competitive winter dairy produce exhibition in connection with the conference on a sound educational basis."

"That this conference discuss the matter of grade certificates, and the manner in which they are issued. That the churning marks, number of churns, and grade points awarded to each churn mark should be shown on certificate together with the exact date on which each lot was graded."

"That this conference consider and discuss the present method of fixing the price of butter on the local market."

LORD MAYOR'S SILVER WEDDING.

The Lord Mayor and the Lady Mayoress last night celebrated their silver wedding by inviting about 100 of the employees of Allen Taylor and Co. to their residence, "Wootton," Darlinghurst, which was beautifully illuminated for the occasion. Among other guests were the Minister for Mines (Mr. Alfred Edden), Mr. W. G. Layton (Deputy Town Clerk), Alderman A. J. Kelly, Alderman Evan Jones, and Mr. S. M. M'C. Anderson. Mr. F. A. Sargeant, on behalf of the employees, presented the Lord Mayor with a framed picture of the works of the firm, a grouped portrait of the employees, and a silver ornament, and spoke in the highest terms of the Lord Mayor as an employer and as a citizen. Captain O'Beirne and Captain Rosen also spoke on behalf of the employees, and Mr. Edden said it seemed to him that the Lord Mayor had no other object in view but to elevate his fellow-men, and to do the best he could for the city. The Lord Mayor referred to the cordial relations which had always existed between the firm and the employees.

Medicine Man: "What is the matter with your Majesty?"

LABOUR TROUBLES.

TERALBA TROUBLE.

MEN DISSATISFIED.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

A meeting of the miners at the four Teralba collieries was held at Teralba to-day. The object of the meeting was to discuss the delegate board's decision to pay the amount in dispute between the proprietors and the men, and the board's recommendation that they return to work. The meeting was of a disorderly nature. A good deal of resentment was expressed at the delegate board's decision.

Mr. D. Watson, president of the federation, was present, and advised the men to accept the board's decision. Several protests were uttered by members at the meeting, and a motion was moved to the effect that the men refuse to accept the board's decision to return to work after the money has been paid from the federation's fund, and that instead the men should return to work on the condition that the federation sue the proprietors for payment of the sum.

An amendment was moved to the effect that the men express themselves willing to go back to work, immediately after the lodges throughout the district had endorsed the minutes of the meeting on Saturday last. Mr. Watson pointed out that this would mean a considerable delay, as some of the lodges would not meet for over three weeks to come. He also pointed out that if the lodges eventually endorsed the board's minutes the Teralba men would not receive the £1 per week victimised pay for the intervening period, as the board had decided that they should resume work immediately. Divisions were called for on both motion and amendment, but as the meeting became so uproarious the chairman was unable to count the hands. At last, in despair, he had to adjourn the meeting until to-morrow morning, when a ballot will be taken.

PELAW-MAIN DISPUTE.

NEWCASTLE, Monday.

Judge Scholes was in Newcastle to-day, when the Conciliation Board, of which he is chairman, met again. The board has been appointed to decide the dispute which recently arose at Pelaw-Main colliery over the working of tops. To-day's discussion was of a formal nature, and it was decided that the board visit the colliery to-morrow and the next day for the purpose of inspecting the conditions prevailing there. The board will meet again on Tuesday next.

MINERS DISSATISFIED.

LITHGOW, Tuesday.

It is reported that trouble is brewing among the miners at the Vale of Clwydd Colliery in consequence of certain changes proposed by the management. The other day a stoppage was narrowly averted over a dispute which occurred as to what constituted a deficient place. The management is said to have given instructions of putting three men to work at a face instead of two. The men up to the present will not agree to this, and state that with three men at the face it is impossible for them to work freely. Further, the management is said to be desirous of cavilling only a certain number of men for places, and putting the remainder where it pleases. The cavil takes place on Friday next, and the men have already stated their disapproval of the proposed change.

At Oakey Park colliery it is stated some disagreement has arisen over the operations of the rule "first on, first to go."

ALLEGED MURDER.

RESULTS OF FUMIGATION.

BRISBANE, Monday.

In the Central Summons Court to-day the police proceeded against Daniel Tighe White, an expert in the employ of William Street, on a charge that he unlawfully killed Alice Jacques. The evidence went to show that Alice Jacques had been in business in spring Hill. On May 7 her body was found lying on the floor of a room in deceased's bedroom. The annual was dead and bleeding from the nose.

Acting Sergeant Colliss said he examined four rooms in the Alliance Hotel which had been previously fumigated by the defendant by means of sulphuric acid and cyanide of potassium, and found that two of the rooms were directly over the deceased's apartments. On May 16, in the presence of the witness and others, the defendant fumigated a room by means of sulphuric acid and cyanide of potassium, as he stated he had done on May 5. The party proceeded to deceased's apartments, where the Government Analyst tested the atmosphere there.

The defendant was remanded.

N.S.W. SOCIETY OF ST. GEORGE.

The annual festival of the New South Wales Society of St George was held last evening, at Aarons' Exchange Hotel. The president, Mr. T. Lethbridge King, occupied the chair. The large gathering included Brigadier-General Gordon, Colonel Antill, Colonel Cox, Captain Rollaston, and Archdeacon Boyce. The toast of the society was given by the president, and that of the New South Wales replied to by Captain Rollaston, who expressed a hope that the Australian navy would not become a separate entity, but form an integral part of the Imperial Navy, and that officers and men, whether from England or Canada, or Australia, would feel themselves perfectly at home. He was sure that they might be appointed. General Gordon, who replied for the Army, said that while the Army recognised that the great strength of the British Empire lay in its navy, the outlying portions of the Empire might at any time be left without adequate protection, and it was on those we were left. The men on land, that the task of maintaining the integrity of that Empire would then fall.

CASUALTIES.

A FATAL DRINK.

Rosanne Coleman, 56, a widow, residing at 44 Mackenzie-st, Waverley, poured some liniment into a cup by mistake, saying, "I am going to drink this." She then drank the liniment. Emetics were given, and a doctor sent for, but on arrival he found life extinct. A report has been forwarded to the Coroner.

KNOCKED DOWN BY A TRAM.

About 11.15 a.m. yesterday James Miles, 72, a dealer, residing at 58 Cooper-street, Surry Hills, was crossing Pitt-street, Haymarket, when he was knocked down by a tram proceeding to the railway station. The Civil Ambulance administered first aid, and removed him to Sydney Hospital, where Dr. Martin admitted him for treatment of injuries to the head.

CHOKED BY A PIECE OF PORK.

An inquiry was held yesterday before the City Coroner, concerning the death of William Henry Kebble, labourer, 42, lately residing at 30 Nicholle-street, city. On the evening of June 10, deceased, after having some drinks with two friends, went to their house for some supper. He put a large piece of pork in his mouth, and began to choke, and died before medical assistance could be summoned. A post-mortem examination revealed a piece of pork measuring 2½ by 1¾ by 2¼ inches, wedged above the opening of the larynx. A verdict of accidental death was recorded.

SHOT HIMSELF IN THE BATH.

An inquiry was held before the City Coroner yesterday concerning the death of John Robin Stevens, 53, life insurance inspector, which occurred at Aarons' Exchange Hotel on June 1. Deceased, who was of temperate habits, went to the Ascot races on June 10, with a friend, and said that he was a little worried about money matters. On the morning of June 13, Della Fitzgerald, housemaid at Aarons' Exchange Hotel, showed deceased where the bathroom was, and on finding the door fastened some hours afterwards she called the hall porter. As he was unable to open the door he looked into the bathroom from a window, and said he thought Stevens was dead, as he could see blood about. He then sent for Constable Robert Black, who forced open the door, and found deceased, partly dressed, lying in the bath, with a pistol in his right hand and a bullet wound in his head. There were two empty shells in the pistol. A verdict of suicide was recorded.

FOUND WITH HIS THROAT CUT.

Robert Hodge, 54, a stonemason, residing at 279 Young-street, Annandale, died yesterday from wounds in the throat. Deceased, who had recently been discharged from Callan Park Hospital, had been worrying about certain business affairs. Yesterday morning his wife entered his room with some tea, and found deceased sitting on a chair with blood pouring from his throat. A doctor was sent for, but death ensued before he could arrive. A blood-stained razor was found on the floor of the room.

KICKED BY HORSE.

CASINO, Monday.

While playing in a yard at Rappville, where some horses were left feeding, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Abearn was kicked on the head. The child was at once brought on a railway trolley to Casino Hospital, where an operation was performed.

THE WEATHER.

GENERAL RAINS IN THE WEST.

As a result of the extension northwards to the Queensland border of the Antarctic disturbance light to heavy and general rains have fallen throughout New South Wales, with the exception of the northern coastal districts. The heaviest falls were received on the south-western slopes and the central and southern tablelands. A few good falls were also recorded in the Riverina and on the south coast. WITHGOW.—On Sunday night heavy rain fell, 65 points being registered up to 9 a.m. on Monday morning.

MOLONG.—Rain commenced to fall heavily, preceded by strong winds, until an early hour on Monday. Up to 9 a.m. 83 points had fallen. There is a great volume of water in the Molong Rivulet, the result of the melting snows in the ranges, and the more recent rainfall.

NORTHLAND.—Good rain fell here on Sunday night, and on Monday. It has continued showery. Almost an inch has been registered, and it is still very unsettled.

SUTTON FOREST.—The rainfall to 9 a.m. on Monday was 24 points.

WOLLONGONG.—Light showers fell here on Sunday, but a heavy downpour is badly needed for the crops and grass.

COAL VEND CASE.

THE THIRTY-FOURTH DAY.

The prosecution in connection with the Coal Vend—thirty-fourth day—was continued before Mr. Justice Isaacs in the High Court yesterday.

Frederick Maurice Russell, Chief Mechanical Engineer of South Australian Railways, re-examined by Mr. Starke (for the Crown), stated that unscheduled coal delivered under contract in 1907-8 made frequent cleanings of the engine ashpits necessary, and tended towards delaying the train service.

Charles Wilson, a Melbourne coal dealer, and secretary of the Melbourne and Suburban Firewood Dealers' Association, gave evidence as to the prices of Vend coal in Melbourne, and a schedule of the prices was put in.

Mr. Starke stated that the object of the evidence was to show the rise in prices after the period before the Crown said the combination started—after September, 1906.

His Honor: But the rise is before that.

Mr. Starke: It all depends when the combination was formed. I am taking it as somewhere after September, 1906.

His Honor: It rose in July to 21/9, fell to 19/6, and then rose again to 21/9.

Mr. Starke: But after August the prices were steady.

His Honor: Very well.

Mr. Starke: At the end of September or November, 1906, according to the Crown, the combination was completed, whatever happened in July. In 1907 you see, as we say, the ultimate effect of the combination.

Witness said that Victorian coal was more friable and wasteful in the hands of the Newcastle coal. There was a breakage of from 15 to 20 per cent from the time the coal left the mine till it reached the customers. The small coal resulting from the breakage could be sold at a price for burning in stationary engines. The consumer would be unable to use the small broken coal for domestic purposes. On the other hand, it was a cleaner burning coal than Newcastle coal.

The Court adjourned till to-day.

RAILWAY EMPLOYEES.

VICTORIAN WAGES INCREASED.

MELBOURNE, Monday.

The reclassification scheme for railway employees will cost about £115,000 per annum. The alterations embody an increase of 6d a day to men in the labouring avocations (which will bring their wage to 7s 6d a day after two years' service), as well as an increase of the minimum classification of the lowest class of clerk from £130 to £135 a year, reached after seven years' service, and of wage of lads in different avocations and of apprentices.

Mr. McClelland, one of the Railway Commiss

FINANCIAL.

THE LEAD "COMBINE"

Mr. Julius Matton, in his latest report on the lead market, says that the second year of the combine ended on April 30, and that the results have been even worse than during the first year, as will be seen by the following comparison of prices:—

	Year before Combine.	1st Year Combine.	2nd Year Combine.
Lowest price	12 6 3	12 6 3	12 7 6
High. price prompt	14 2 6	13 17 6	13 7 6
Highest price for-ward	14 7 6	14 3 0	13 11 3
Average price	13 4 11	13 1 1	12 17 9

The market has now come to the conclusion that the combine can have no permanent influence over London; in fact, its opinion has turned the other way, and some influential firms think that prices would have been higher but for the convention, as speculation has almost entirely been killed, speculators not relishing the idea of always being underbid by the combine when they wanted to realise. In the meantime the combine is loading ground and some silver-lead which formerly went to it has been diverted to the English desilverisers. A significant fact is also the shipment recently of 600 tons German lead—from outside the combine—to Newcastle. The shipments of lead from New York to Yokohama—400 tons last month—also show that the members of the combine are still competing with each other outside Europe. It is stated that at least some of the members of the combine are dissatisfied with prices, but on the other hand, they like the easy-going way—inaugurated by the Penarroya Company—of letting other people do the business for them. This is very comfortable for the managers, but whether it is good for the companies themselves is another question.

SAVINGS BANK AMALGAMATIONS.

The referendum papers issued by the Barrack-street Savings Bank being now in the hands of its depositors, all sorts of questions are being asked by those who seem to have at length awakened up to the fact that something is being done. The following letter from "One Interested" shows what hazy ideas prevail on some questions:—

Sir,—What is the object of this proposal to amalgamate the Savings Bank of New South Wales with the Post Office Savings Bank? Is not one the property of the State, and the other that of the Commonwealth? And if they become amalgamated, which will have the control? Also, which rate of interest will be paid? For I understand the State bank pays the higher rate at present.

Some depositors have received a curt notice to vote "Yes" or "No," but no explanation at all is given. What is the rule by which the notices have been sent? Many of the depositors, and those also come early on the alphabetical list, have up to the present received no notice. In the interest of the public these things should be explained.

Of course neither is the property of the Commonwealth, and it is the State Bank that pays the lower rate of interest.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

John Lysaght, Limited, made a net profit of £283,900 last year, against £281,300 in 1909. Shareholders get 30 per cent. plus a bonus of £50,000. The reserve has been strengthened by £10,000, and the workmen's provident fund by £4000.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

In the markets yesterday interest centred principally in the doings in heavy metals. The cabled news that prices of German wires had broken was supplemented by the statement that the convention among German makers no longer existed, and that a time of cut prices had arrived. Nine or twelve months ago a break away from the convention occurred, but the disagreement on that occasion lasted a very little while. And so it may be with the present disruption. In the meantime those who have stocks in hand, and those who have stocks to arrive, be ght in each case at high prices, are naturally anxious as to the future. There was no lowering of prices yesterday, but quotations were not so firm, and there was no doubt but that offers for large parcels at rates below those ruling last week would not be made in vain. American wire was also affected by the news of the German disagreement, and in this case also quotations, though nominally unchanged, were easier. When the tin markets broke away the skyrocket fashion values of tinplates were advanced by some houses. Now that tin has fallen plates have receded to the former price of 16/6 per case. XX coke plates were unchanged yesterday at 22/6, universal, but tin ingots, which had also advanced in Sydney with tin, had receded yesterday to 2/1. Business in wire netting, though quiet, showed improvement, the country being more anxious to buy. Among axes, Collin's Tasmanian patterns at 47/ and Collin's King at 46/ per dozen, had good inquiry. Cement, imported brands, was very scarce on spot, and holders for small lots asked 14/ per cask, an advance of 6d.

Oils continued firm with good inquiry. Two hundred drums of linseed of various brands sold at market rates. One hundred and ten cases of turps, Pine Tree brand, sold at 5/3 per gallon. A fair demand for Australian zinc white was satisfied, and imported whitelead had business done at market rates.

Tea maintained firm prices. Two hundred packages of Ceylon sold up to 7/10. Samples which arrived by the mail showed quality on a par with that of last week. In Eastern produce, a fair business was noted at current rates. No move has yet been made to increase the price of peppers, and the competition is so keen that, despite increased laid down cost, due to a rise in Singapore, no alteration will be made locally until one or other of the houses principally concerned feels the loss acutely.

The fute position was unaltered. Small lots of cornsacks could be had at 5/7½, but, generally speaking, the market was 5/8. Calcutta quotations were irregular. Business in bran was principally with the country at 4/6. Woolpacks were dull at 2/5 for spot, and to arrive.

Supplies of hardwoods from Tasmania and Western Australia are coming in more freely. Stocks of local hardwood are not so high as they were, but with a slackening in demand, due to the winter, it is not expected that a shortage will be felt. Lumber on the Pacific coast of North America is easier, and prices are lower, but locally there will be no change, as the increase in freights about balances the cheaper f. b. cost. A good business has been done in oregon and redwood for end of the year leading. The Baltic market is a shade easier, but here, again, freights are advancing. Baltic stocks in hand are plentiful, and buyers are not inclined to operate freely, except for replenishment.

In brewers' goods old Victorian malt has been sold at 6/ c.i.f., Sydney. Distributing lots are worth 6/3 per bushel. New Victorian malt is offering for contract also at 6/3. English malt is still in limited supply, and the demand is quiet. Prices, however, will firm, small lots selling at 8/ per bushel duty paid. Some holders are asking 9/3 for primest quality. All hops are unchanged except Americans, which have advanced here in sympathy with higher rates ruling in San Francisco. The price of 1910 Washington hops, to arrive, is 1/3 c.i.f. Sydney net cash, which is an advance of /4i since the beginning of the season in September last. The acreage under cultivation this year shows a marked decrease; hence, with lower production, higher rates have ruled. The market in America being in a very excited state, with a strong upward tendency, prevents merchants here quoting for the 1911 American hop crop.

BREADSTUFFS.

A fair amount of business was done in wheat yesterday at the ruling price of last week, 3/2 ex trucks Darling Island, for farmers' lots. There was also some inquiry for the placing of wheat forward, speculators offering to sell at 3/6, extended delivery, July to December. Millers advanced to 3/4, but were purchasing little. The market in London was cabled as promising a slightly better tone. A small handysized cargo, March shipment, sold at 29/9 per quarter. Nominal quotations were 33/6 to 35/9 for cargoes, and 32/9 for parcels.

Flour was quiet, the association rate remaining unchanged at £8/10/ per ton.

At Darling Island yesterday 1498 tons wheat and 208 tons flour were manifested to arrive.

CRICKET.

N.S.W. CRICKET ASSOCIATION.

The monthly meeting of the N.S.W. Cricket Association was held last night at the association's rooms, Moore-street, Mr. J. H. Clayton presiding.

It was resolved, on the motion of Mr. H. B. Falconer, that all clubs affiliated should hold their annual meetings before the annual general meeting of the association.

The recommendation of the executive committee, that the application of the Marrickville District Club for admission to the first grade competition be not entertained, was adopted. It was stated on behalf of the executive that the performance of the Marrickville club was looked upon as a very meritorious one, but it was not the policy of the association to elevate clubs simply because they were good in the second grade competitions. They had to be satisfied that the club was strong enough to enter the ranks of the first grade, and in the present instance they were of opinion that the club had not yet reached that standard.

When the question of grants was brought forward it was stated that the following grants had been made, but since 1901 very few had been made owing to lack of funds:—Central Cumberland, £255; University, of £160; Waverley, £275; Leichhardt, £220; Redfern, £233; North Sydney, £255; Glebe, £275; Burwood, £245; Paddington, £195; Balmain, £225; South Sydney, £240; Kingsford, £185; Randwick, £205; Petersham, £60; Hurstville, £55; St. George, £70; Balmain, £75.

The executive committee recommended that the following grants be made for the present year, to be used for the specified purpose for which they were given:—

Redfern D.C.C., £225, provided the oval is enlarged; New Ashfield Oval, £195 this year, and £75 next year; Petersham D.C.C., £50, towards improving the ground; Marrickville D.C.C., £25, to be spent on improving the wicket; Glebe D.C.C., £25, to be spent on improving the outfield at Jubilee Park; Mosman on improving the ground; Central Cumberland D.C.C., £25, to be spent on improving the ground; Gordon subject to retaining the tenure of the oval; Gordon D.C.C., £20, to be spent on improving the ground; Waverley D.C.C., £25, to be spent on improving Waverley No. 2 ground; North Sydney D.C.C., not exceeding £30, for improving the outfield conditionally on the municipal council contributing £ for £; Cremorne D.C.C., £25, to be spent on improving the oval Cumberland, £25, to be spent on improving the outfield.

The executive's recommendations were adopted, except in the case of Petersham D.C.C., in which case the amount was altered to stand over.

The total credit balance was stated to be £617273 10s 10d.
